REGISTER OF FACTORIES.

3. The Inspector shall keep a Register of Factories in Form A attached to these rules, and shall furnish a copy of the entries pertaining to each district to the District Magistrate thereof and to the Certifying Surgeon appointed for the area in which the factory is situated on the 1st February of each year. He shall also intimate to the District Magistrate at the time they are made all changes in the register which are made in accordance with the following rule.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPILING THE REGISTER OF FACTORIES.

4. (a) Every person sending to the Factory Inspector a written notice under section 33 of the Act of the occupation of a factory shall state in the prescribed Form M the maximum number of persons simultaneously employed within the precincts of the factory on any one day in the year.
- (b) When the Inspector receives notice in accordance with section 33 of the Act in Form M of a factory being occupied, and it does not appear from such notice that any of the exemptions specified in section 3 (1) of the Act apply, or when he has reason to believe that any premises situated within the local limits for which he is appointed and not already registered as a factory ought to be included in his register, he shall send to the occupier of the premises a notice intimating his intention of placing such premises on his register of factories.
- (c) Any person served with a notice under clause (b) above may, within 15 days of the receipt of such notice, forward to the Inspector a statement setting forth his objections to the registration of his premises as a factory. The Inspector shall consider and dispose of such objections, after making such enquiry as he may deem necessary, and shall make up his Register of Factories accordingly, and shall communicate his decision to the person concerned.

(d) If the occupier of a registered factory wishes to claim exemption from the Act and to have his factory removed from the register on the ground that it is exempted under section 3 (1), then he shall forward a detailed statement giving his reasons why the factory should be removed from the register. The Inspector shall consider and dispose of such claim, after making such enquiry as he may deem necessary, and shall communicate his decision to the person concerned.

(e) When any premises ceases to be occupied as a factory, the occupier may give notice of the fact to the Inspector, who shall, if satisfied that the Act is no longer applicable to such premises, remove them from his Register of Factories. The Inspector may without such notice of his own motion at any time remove any factory from his register, if satisfied that it is no longer used as such.

(f) Seasonal factories shall not be removed from the register if there is probability of their starting work again within a reasonable time.

SECTIONS 4, 5 AND 37 (2) (a).

INSPECTION.

5. The Inspector appointed under section 4 (1) of the Act shall be primarily responsible for the administration of the Act within the Punjab. He shall inspect every factory other than a seasonal factory, within that area at least twice yearly, and every seasonal factory within the area at least once during each season of work. He shall also make such further inspections as may appear to be necessary to him, or to the authority to whom he is subordinate, in order that he may satisfy himself that the provisions of the Act and of these rules are duly observed.

SECTION 5 AND SECTION 37 (2) (d).

DUTIES AND POWERS OF THE INSPECTOR.

6. (a) In addition to and without prejudice to any other powers or duties which the Inspector may exercise under the Act or rules, he shall at each inspection of a factory satisfy himself that the provisions made in the Act and rules to secure the health and safety of the operatives are observed: that the children employed in the factory have been duly certified and the register of children properly maintained: that the hours of employment of women and children and of any persons working in shifts are properly recorded: that the periodical stoppages of work and the holidays provided by the Act are granted, and that the limits of hours of work laid down therein are not exceeded: and that the abstracts and notices prescribed by section 38 of the Act are duly affixed and that the registers and muster-rolls required by these rules are properly maintained. He shall further enquire into the cause of all accidents which have taken place since the last inspection. Finally, he shall note how far the defects pointed out at previous inspection have been removed and how far orders previously issued have been complied with. A note of all defects and illegalities discovered together with orders for their remedy or removal passed by him under the Act or these rules shall be subsequently sent to the occupier or manager in the Form J (attached to these rules), and a copy of the said list shall be sent to the District Magistrate concerned.

At the same time he shall record his opinion whether, if in the event of the accused being convicted and fined, any portion of the fine recovered should be given to the person injured or his dependents by the court in the manner contemplated by section 545 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

(d) In the case of factories situated in places coming under the Municipal Act, 1911, if it appears that there has been a disregard of the provisions under the Municipal Act and rules relating to sanitary arrangements, removal of objectionable rubbish, the cleansing and fencing of water tanks or the like matters, the Inspector shall, without prejudice to any action which he is empowered to take under the Act and rules, draw the attention of the Health Officer or Sanitary Inspector of the municipality to the breach of the sanitary regulations in question.

No. 2357-B.—The following is published for general information with reference to section 42 of the Land Acquisition Act, I of 1894:—

Memorandum of Agreement made this fifteenth day of November 1917 between the India General Navigation and Railway Company, Limited, a Company incorporated under the English Companies Act having its principal place of business in India at No. 4, Fairlie Place in the town of Calcutta and the Rivers Steam Navigation Company, Limited, a Company incorporated under the English Companies Act having its principal place of business in India at No. 2, Clive Ghat Street in the town of Calcutta hereinafter called "The Companies" of the one part and the Secretary of State for India in Council and on his behalf the Chief Commissioner of Assam hereinafter called "The Secretary of State" of the other part.

Whereas for the purpose of the construction of permanent sheds, offices and godowns for the storage and safe custody of imported and exported goods, the Companies have applied to the Chief Commissioner of Assam for the acquisition under the provision of the Land Acquisition Act 1894, of the two pieces or parcels of land containing in all 12 bighas 14 katas 10 chhataks of land situated in the town of Chhatak in the district of Sylhet and more particularly described in the schedule hereto and delineated in the plan hereto annexed.

And whereas the said Chief Commissioner of Assam being satisfied by an enquiry held under section 40 of the said Act that the proposed acquisition is needed for the aforesaid purpose and that the said work is likely to prove useful to the public, has consented to acquire on behalf of the Companies the two pieces or parcels of land hereinbefore described.

And whereas the said Chief Commissioner of Assam has required the Companies under the provisions of section 41 of the above-mentioned Act to enter into the Agreement with the Secretary of State hereinafter contained. Now this Indenture witnesseth that it is hereby agreed and declared as follows:—

1. 3. On payment by the Companies of all demands under the foregoing first clause, or, in the discretion of the said Chief Commissioner of Assam (on deposit by the Companies of all estimated amounts as provided in the second clause), but not before possession shall have been taken under the provisions of the above-mentioned Act, the Secretary of State shall make over possession of the said land to the Companies and shall execute and do all such acts and deeds as may be necessary and proper for effectually vesting the same in the Companies.

APPLICATION FOR AMENDMENT UNDER SECTION 17.

Notice is hereby given that all persons interested in opposing the following application to amend at any time within three months of the date of this Gazette of India give notice at the Patent Office in the prescribed form No. 5 of such opposition.

No. 2861 of 1916. John Graeme Balsillie, of 360, Collins Street, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia, seeks leave to amend the specification of his application for patent numbered as above. The proposed amendments as shown in the printed specification are as follows:—

On page 1, line 3 by substituting "atmospheric region of winds vapor and dust clouds known as the 'troposphere' for 'atmosphere'".

On page 1, lines 12 to 14 by substituting "Condensation on the negative ions so produced only begins when the supersaturation is about fourfold, and condensation on the positive ions so produced only begins when the supersaturation is about sevenfold. Dust particles already existent in the atmosphere may be caused to act as more active nuclei if these particles be electrified. Under suitable conditions water condensed on such charged dust particles will by virtue of their charge grow considerably in dimension," for "and if the..... is assisted".

On page 1, lines 18 to 19 by substituting "Of such a dimension as will occasion" for "and assisting.....occasioning".

On page 1, line 25 by inserting "charged" after "providing".

On page 1, lines 27 and 28 by omitting "with the.....zone, I".

On page 1, line 29 by substituting "negative" for "opposite".

On page 1, line 30 by omitting "to that.....contained".

On page 2, by omitting lines 1 to 12.

On page 3, by substituting the following claims for claims 1, 2, 3 and 5:—

"1. A process for assisting and promoting formation of aqueous particles in a zone of the troposphere, and occasioning their deposition as rain, consisting in providing charged nuclei in said zone upon which the water vapor may condense, and simultaneously maintaining electrification in said zone.

2. A process for assisting and promoting the formation of aqueous particles of such a dimension that their deposition as rain takes place in and from a zone of the troposphere consisting in negatively electrifying the already existent dust particles in such zone and simultaneously maintaining electrification therein.

3. A process for the purposes set forth consisting essentially in providing electrified nuclei in a zone of the troposphere and simultaneously maintaining electrification of said zone.
5. Apparatus for the purpose of occasioning local rainfall, comprising a plurality of electrical stations capable of simultaneous operation, each of said stations comprising means for electrically charging nuclei in a zone of the troposphere upon which nuclei water vapor may condense and for maintaining electrification in said zone."

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

Review of the Reports on the Administration of the Mints at Calcutta and Bombay for the year 1917-18.

I.—Working of the Mints.

Receipts, etc., of Gold.

All gold coin and bullion imported into British India subsequently to the 29th June 1917 was acquired by Government under the Gold (Import) Ordinance which was passed into law as the Gold (Import) Act (No. XXII of 1917) on the 27th September. The amount of gold so acquired was Rs. 18,36,66,547. The following table gives the total receipts in 1917-18 at the two Mints on account of acquired gold as well as on account of tenders of gold coins received from the Presidency Banks and the public, including minor receipts from Government treasuries :—

	CALCUTTA.	BOMBAY.	TOTAL.
	Value in Rupees.	Value in Rupees.	Value in Rupees.
Sovereigns and half sovereigns including short-weight and uncurrent coin	1,66,09,090	5,20,65,115	6,92,74,214
Foreign coin	3,74,28,189	3,07,52,870	6,81,81,059
Gold bullion	3,45,63,298	4,29,86,809	7,75,50,107
TOTAL	8,86,00,586	12,64,04,794	21,50,05,380

The Calcutta figures exclude 7 consignments of sovereigns valued at Rs. 2,77,76,985 received on behalf of the Currency Reserve from the Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

2. The arrangement for the custody on behalf of the Bank of England of consignments of gold from the Indian Mines and South Africa was continued at the Bombay Mint. Out of the stocks thus held, gold to the value of Rs. 4,60,43,622 was transferred during the year to the Currency Gold Bullion Account under special arrangements concluded between the Government of India and the Bank of England. £2,485,820 worth of African gold was also shipped to Ottawa on behalf of the Bank of England.

Coinage of Silver.

3. A considerable quantity of silver coinage was carried out at the Mints during the year under review, though the amount is somewhat smaller than in the previous year. The details of the silver coinage executed at the two Mints for the Government of India during the year 1917-18 as given in Statement No. II attached to the Mint Masters' Reports are shown in the statement below :—

	CALCUTTA.	BOMBAY.	TOTAL.
	Value in Rupees.	Value in Rupees.	Value in Rupees.
Rupees	9,07,00,000	13,51,33,293	22,58,33,293
Half-rupees	44,11,140	44,11,140
Quarter-rupees	52,67,909	...	52,67,909
Eighth-rupees	31,94,945	...	31,94,945
TOTAL	9,01,62,854	13,95,44,433	22,97,07,287
TOTAL FOR 1916-17	16,28,66,915	14,53,40,331	30,77,07,246

The bulk of the coinage was from purchased silver. Withdrawn and uncurrent coin of the total nominal value of Rs. 1,26,76,902 was received at the two Mints for recoinage. The demand for small coin has been steadily increasing during the past two years and a large amount of fractional silver coinage was necessary to keep up stocks.

4. Besides the above, the following subsidiary silver coinage was executed during the year on behalf of other Governments :—

Denomination of coin.	CALCUTTA MINT.		BOMBAY MINT.		Government on whose behalf the Coinage was executed.
	Tale.	Value in Rupees.	Tale.	Value in Rupees.
Ceylon	{ 50 cents .	1,072,810	5,86,420	...	{ Ceylon Government.
	{ 25 " .	312,000	78,000	...
	{ 10 " .	879,455	87,945	...
Straits	{ 20 "	551,641	1,68,120	{ Straits Government.
	{ 10 "	6,099,860	8,73,542

	{ 5 "	4,983,402	27,18,612
	{ 2 "	2,861,190	6,24,378

Nickel and Bronze Coinage.

5. One-anna nickel coins numbering 58,066,665 pieces of the nominal value of Rs. 36,29,167 were struck during the year at the Bombay Mint against 39,087,087 pieces coined during the previous year. In addition, the Bombay Mint carried out nickel coinage for the Egyptian Government consisting of 5 and 10 millieme pieces, valued at Rs. 5,56,579.

During the closing months of the year, the coinage of the new nickel two-anna pieces was commenced. The designs and punches for the new coin were prepared at the Calcutta Mint but the actual coining was taken up at both Mints. By the 31st March 1918, 3,848,000 pieces of the nominal value of Rs. 4,81,000 had been turned out at the two Mints.

6. The bronze coinage was as usual confined to the Calcutta Mint and consisted of piee, half-piee and pie pieces of the aggregate value of Rs. 16,03,600 as compared with Rs. 2,65,900 in 1916-17. This large quantity of bronze coinage was necessitated by an increase in the demand, and by the withdrawal of the old copper coin, which has been going on at treasuries during the past few years.

The Calcutta Mint also coined Rs. 20,000 worth of copper cents and half cents for the Ceylon Government and Rs. 4,80,000 worth of bronze pennies and half-pennies for the Australian Commonwealth.

Operative losses.

7. Silver—The loss on the silver coinage calculated according to the method hitherto in use worked out to Rs. 109·7 per lakh at the Calcutta Mint and Rs. 56·86 per lakh at the Bombay Mint. This rate compares favourably with that noticed in the previous year as the operative loss at the Calcutta Mint.

The Mint Master, Bombay, has however suggested that the operative losses should be calculated on a different basis, and the resulting rates arrived at by this method are for Calcutta 44·2 per lakh of standard tolas and for Bombay 18·28.

The difference between the operative losses at the two Mints is largely to be attributed to the difference in the silver used for coinage. Thus the Calcutta Mint received in uncurrent coin almost double the amount of such coin received in Bombay for recoinage, while the amount of sycee silver used in Bombay for coinage was very considerably in excess of that received at the Calcutta Mint.

8. Nickel.—The total operative loss written off during the year on account of nickel coinage at the Bombay Mint amounted to 51 maunds giving a percentage of 0.72 per 100 maunds of metal coined. Owing to a shortage in the supplies of pure nickel, a large proportion of cupro-nickel scrap obtained from Ordnance factories in India was utilised. The scrap contained an appreciable amount of dirt and extraneous matter, and this cause accounts for the higher percentage of loss during the year.

9. Bronze.—The operative loss on account of the bronze coinage for the Government of India, including melting and coinage losses, amounted to 119 maunds giving an average rate of 0.89 per 100 maunds of bronze pieces coined.

Revenue and Expenditure.

10. The statement below gives the usual figures of the revenue and expenditure including interest on capital outlay and other pro-forma charges of the two Mints for the years 1916-17 and 1917-18:—

Year.	REVENUE.			EXPENDITURE.
	Calcutta.	Bombay.	Total.	Calcutta.	Bombay.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1916-17	35,04,7	37,14,093	72,18,885	18,01,996	14,30,799	32,32,795
1917-18	23,63,157	32,42,653	56,05,810	16,18,309	13,46,353	29,64,662

The bulk of the revenue at both Mints was derived from seignorage on rupee-coinage and other similar dues charged on coinage executed for Foreign Governments, as will appear from the following table:—

	Calcutta.	Bombay.	TOTAL.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Seignorage on new rupee coinage	17,65,422	25,49,846	43,15,268

TOTAL	18,94,429	27,72,265	46,66,694

11. The expenditure on salaries and establishments at the two Mints compares as follows with that incurred during 1916-17.

	CALCUTTA MINT.			BOMBAY MINT.			BOTH MINTS.
	1916-17	1917-18	Increase + or decrease — in 1917-18.	1916-17	1917-18	Increase + or decrease — in 1917-18	1916-17	1917-18	Increase + or decrease — in 1917-18

Munitions Work.

12. Munitions work was carried on at both Mints, though to a smaller extent than in previous years owing to a reduction in the demands from the Ordnance Department. The work consisted as usual of the manufacture of copper driving bands for shell-bodies, the building and repair of ambulance bodies for motor cars and the supply of other miscellaneous requirements for the Military Department, the Red Cross and St. John's Ambulance. Successful experiments were undertaken at the Calcutta Mint in connection with the manufacture of muntz metal sheathing for the Controller of Ship-building.

Miscellaneous Work.

13. The Mints were also engaged as usual on the supply of dies, medals, etc., the manufacture and adjustment of scales and weights and other miscellaneous work for Government departments and the public.

14. The receipts on account of miscellaneous work done at the two Mints and the cost were as follows :—

Year.	CALCUTTA MINT.			BOMBAY MINT.			BOTH MINTS.
	Cost of work done.	Amount realised.	Profit.	Cost of work done.	Amount realised.	Profit.	Cost of work done.	Amount realised.	Profit.

The Bombay figures include a sum of Rs. 30,726 on account of molting fees on the Indian Mines' and other gold deposited at the Mint.

Counterfeit Coins.

15. There was a substantial reduction in the number of counterfeit silver coin of the several denominations cut at Treasuries during the year as will appear from the following figures :—

	Rs.	$\frac{1}{2}$ Rs.	$\frac{1}{4}$ Rs.	$\frac{1}{8}$ Rs.	TOTAL.
1916-17 . . .	117,091	5,937	7,956	5,343	136,327

16. Mints.—Counterfeit silver coins numbering 11,041 were received at the two Mints during the year against 10,850 in the preceding year.

The details of the two years are given in the statement below :—

Offences against Coinage.

17. The following table compares the number of offences against coinage brought to trial during the calendar year 1917 with the corresponding figures of the previous year. There were noticeable decreases both in the number of cases brought to trial and in the number of persons convicted in the Punjab and Burma :—

II.—Working of the Assay Offices.

Number of assays.

19. The following statement shows the number of gold and silver assays made in 1917-18 and the previous year :—

YEAR.	CALCUTTA ASSAY OFFICE.		BOMBAY ASSAY OFFICE.
	Gold.	Silver.	Gold.	Silver.
1916-17	1,580	49,399	3,439	58,361
1917-18	2,043	32,565	9,040	48,111

There was a reduction in the number of silver assays at both offices. The total number of gold assays made at the Bombay Assay Office shows an increase over the record figure of 1916-17. Only a third of the total gold assays, however, was in connection with work for the Mint, the balance being private assays.

Average fineness of silver meltings.

20. The average fineness per mille of silver meltings for the silver coinage during the year was as follows:—

	Calcutta.	Bombay.
Rupees	916.141	915.857
Quarter-rupees	915.796	...
Eighth-rupees	915.718	...

Gold in silver coins.

21. The average of gold found by monthly parting assays in the silver pyx coins in the two Mints is shown below:—

Half-rupees	0.080 "
Quarter-rupees	0.082 "	...

23. Lt.-Col. J. Lloyd Jones, I.M.S., who held the post of Assay Master, Bombay, for the greater part of the last 7 years including the year under review, retired on the 28th April, 1918. He was connected with the Assay Department for 18 years.

The post of Assay Master, Calcutta, was held by Lt.-Col. J. J. Bourke, I.M.S.

General.

24. The review of the year's operations indicates that very heavy demands were made on both Mints, as also on both Assay Offices, in connection with the currency requirements of the Government of India and of other Governments. The tale of Government of India coin minted at the Calcutta Mint was 273,739,198 and at the Bombay Mint 203,190,238 pieces in addition to a coinage for other Governments amounting to 40,048,143 pieces. My acknowledgments are due to both Mint Masters and to both Assay Masters for their ready response to the demands thrown on them and for their efficient administration of their departments.

CALCUTTA;
The 16th August 1918.

M. M. S. GUBBAY,
Controller of Currency.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE CALCUTTA MINT.

No. 1484, dated the 18th June 1918.

FROM—Lieutenant-Colonel A. L. C. McCormick, R.E., Master of the Mint, Calcutta,
TO—The Controller of Currency, Calcutta.

I have the honour to submit the following report on the operations of the Calcutta Mint, together with the prescribed statements, for the financial year 1917-18.

GOLD.

2. The value of Mint certificates issued against tenders of gold coin received through the Presidency Bank and the public, amounted to Rs. 49,99,800, as detailed below :—

Tale.	Classification.	Value in Rupees.
331,787	Sovereigns of current weight	49,76,805 0 0
68	Defective sovereigns unfit for re-issue, nominal value	1,020 0 0
1,465	Sovereigns of short weight or not more than 3 grs. less than standard weight, nominal value	21,975 0 0
	TOTAL	49,99,800 0 0

3. In addition to the above, 7 consignments of sovereigns were received on behalf of the Currency Reserve from the Commonwealth Bank and classified as follows :—

Tale.	Classification.	Value in Rupees.

	TOTAL	2,77,76,985 0 0

In both the above cases the current weight sovereigns were as usual re-mitted to the Currency Office.

4. The following receipts represent the gold coin and bullion received during the year on Treasury account :—

Tale.	Classification.	Value in Rupees.
10	Sovereigns of current weight unfit for re-issue, nominal value	240 0 0
5	Sovereigns of short weight or not more than 3 grs. less than standard weight, nominal value	75 0 0

	TOTAL	8,35,97,901 1 5

6. Owing to continued demands for gold medals, miniatures and Indian title badges the Mint was obliged to purchase under sanction of Government Rs. 11,675-14-0 worth of fine gold to replenish stock.

7. There were no remittances of gold from Mint balances to England during the year under review.

SILVER.

8. Receipts.—The receipts of silver comprised :—

(a) Bar silver, sycee silver and Mexican dollars amounting to 88,271,110·8 standard tolas and invoiced at Rs. 8,00,81,766-13-10. Details of these receipts are given below :—

Classification.	Std. tolas.	Invoice value.
		Rs.	A.	P.
Bar silver	74,724,709·1	6,81,64,424	10	10
Sycee silver	10,279,790·5	88,91,292	14	0
Mexican dollars	3,266,611·2	30,26,049	5	0
TOTAL	88,271,110·8	8,00,81,766	13	10

Of the above receipts, 2,252,927·4 standard tolas of bar silver, invoiced at Rs. 20,63,749-7-3 was purchased locally, the remainder being received from the Secretary of State.

The sycee silver amounting to 95·76 lakhs of tolas, and bar silver amounting to 14·91 lakhs of tolas were pre-melted, the other receipts were taken directly into alligation.

(b) Withdrawn and uncurrent coins from treasuries for re-coining into new coin.

The nominal value of the uncurrent coin receipts amounted to Rs. 88,63,756³/₄, details of which are shown in the following table :—

Classification.	In lakhs of rupees.
Government Rupees and half-rupees of 1835	3·51
Do. do. 1840 (1st issue)	7·46
Do. do. 1840 (2nd issue)	24·06
Coins shroff marked, dumb and defective	9·61
Do. worn	35·59
Do. reduced	10
Do. soldered	2·59
George V 1911 coins	40
Current weight coins unnecessarily cut by Treasuries	22
TOTAL	88·63

9. As in the case of gold purchased for medals, a silver purchase to the value of Rs. 2,896-5-3 was made to replenish stock.

10. Coinage.—A heavy silver coinage was executed in this period, as will be seen from the statement of coinage appended.

11. The silver coinage for the Government of India amounted to 187,831,198 pieces, valued at Rs. 9,91,62,854-6-0 as compared with 189,663,108 pieces, valued at Rs. 16,23,66,945-8-0 in the previous year.

12. A coinage of subsidiary coins for the Ceylon Government was commenced in March 1917, and completed during the year under review. This coinage consisted of 50, 25 and 10 cent silver pieces totalling 2,264,295 coins, valued at Rs. 7,02,365-8-0.

13. Percentage of good coins.—The percentages of good coins, obtained from the weight of the metal operated on, are furnished below :—

Denomination of Coin.	Weight of ingots rolled Lakhs of tolas.	Percentage of good coins.
Rupees	1,362.11	66.6
Quarter rupees	83.66	62.9
Eighth rupees	51.66	61.8
Ceylon 50 cents	19.53	42.7
„ 25 cents	5.01	40.6
„ 10 cents	2.98	33.5

The percentages of Government of India coins show an improvement over the figures for last year, though they still remain about 1 per cent. below the average of previous years. This is due to some extent to the Mint having been compelled to work small silver coins, at frequent intervals, concurrently with rupees, which adversely affects the percentages for the year.

13A. As regards the Ceylon coinage, the percentages of good coin are generally low owing to the small remedy in weight allowed on each individual coin.

In the present instance the percentages are poorer than usual by reason of the fact that the first 5.8 lakhs of tolas coined were remelted as they failed to attain the standard of excellence demanded by the Mints.

14. Pyx Trials.—The Assay Master's report on the Pyx coin sent to him for test shows that the weight and fineness of the silver coinage was maintained at the prescribed standard.

15. Silver Operative losses.—I append below the usual balance statement showing the loss sustained in silver coinage operations during the period 1st April 1917 to 31st March 1918.

Rs.	AS.	P.	Rs.	AS.	P.
To Balance	59,07,429	11 2	Issues	10,28,88,928	12 1

The above closing balance represents the balance on 31st March 1918, the date on which the operative losses in the different departments were closed.

16. As there were 991.13 lakhs* of standard tolas coined during the year, the rate of loss on the coinage works out to 109.7 per lakh and compares favourably with 114.69 per lakh of the previous year.

* Government of India coinage.

16A. A balance sheet exhibiting the annual minting loss prepared in a form recently suggested by the Mint Master, Bombay, is appended.

This statement shows the value of the purchased silver receipts at invoiced finenesses, as distinguished from Indian assay finenesses and the uncurrent coin receipts at standard, i.e., one rupee per tola. The issues are valued at Indian assay finenesses.

The proposal to substitute a loss statement prepared on these lines for the statement appearing in paragraph 15 is now under discussion between the Mint Masters and the Controller of Currency.

17. The Bullion-keeper was called upon to make good the sum of Rs. 551.13 on account of losses incurred in the month of February 1918 in the Rolling and Cutting Departments.

This amount when recovered from the Bullion-keeper will be credited as an "Operative Gain" in next year's account.

18. The above loss was due to thefts, and the whole case is remarkable as the thief confessed on the day he was discovered that he had secreted some 53 rupee blanks, each weighing 180 grains in his rectum. He was charged with stealing, convicted, and ultimately received two years' imprisonment; certain other persons believed to be implicated in the case were dismissed.

NICKEL.

19. Experiments in connection with the introduction of the 2-anna nickel coin were instituted in April 1917. The designs for the coin, vide Nos. 4 and 5 of the frontispiece, were approved by Government in January 1918, and coinage operations in a small way were commenced almost immediately.

20. Owing to a scarcity in the Mint stocks of pure nickel for coinage purposes, enquiries were instituted with a view to discover if any stocks of this metal were held or were available in or near Calcutta, when it was noticed that the Ordnance Factories were advertising for sale by auction, as scrap, fairly large quantities of cupro-nickel derived from old used bullets, but contaminated with lead.

The Ordnance Factories were at once asked to supply the Mint with samples for experimental purposes and to countermand their sales, which they did.

21. Initial experiments with this alloy were carried out in the melting department of the Calcutta Mint, but those failed. In November 1917, however, the Assay Master reported that after cleaning the cupro-nickel with an alkali, and treating it with three consecutive baths of weak nitric acid, he was able to eliminate all but a very small percentage of the lead, and that after melting the refined substance with 5-7% of pure nickel to bring up the fineness of the alloy in nickel the resulting bars were fit for coinage purposes.

22. The Mint experienced considerable difficulty in carrying out these operations on a commercial scale, and it was only towards the close of the year after various trials had been made with different processes of annealing and after the adoption of mechanically revolved aluminium trundling barrels to contain the metal and acid that the small initial refining department could be considered a success.

23. It is calculated that about 226 tons of cupro-nickel scrap have been made immediately available for nickel coinage, by means of this process of refining. In addition to the above it is estimated that the different Arsenal and Ordnance Depôts will be able to supply about 13 tons of this scrap monthly for the duration of the war.

24. As the present Department in which these operations are conducted is small and only capable of supplying the Mint with a limited quantity of cupro-nickel daily, sanction was obtained to erect a larger and more fully equipped nickel refinery on a vacant spot of ground in the Mint compound. The new refinery is in operation.

25. Although there was only a small coinage of nickel 2 annas in January and February 1918, it was possible to show a total coinage of 2,680,000 pieces, valued at Rs. 3,35,000 before the expiry of the year.

26. There was a net loss in refining of 127,311 tolas of cupro-nickel, but this loss includes a certain quantity of dirt and dust received with the bullets. It also includes 39,100 tolas of pure lead which was recovered from the annealing furnaces at the conclusion of the first cleaning operation.

In the Melting and Coining departments there were losses of 12,707 tolas and 17,999 tolas, respectively.

No percentage loss is shown this year as the total coinage, viz., 2,680,000 pieces, is small and much of the work done was experimental and returned to the melting pot. It is probable, however, that the melting loss will always be high because the refining operation does not completely dissolve away all the adhering lead nor does it always remove the aluminium cores often firmly fixed within the bullets, and these have to be slagged off when melting.

The Coining department loss of 17,999 tolas includes losses incurred in all the initial experiments including early refining losses.

BRONZE AND COPPER.

27. The Mint executed the following bronze and copper coinages during the year :—

	Pieces.	Valued at. Rs.
(1) Bronze pie, half pie and pies for Government of India	183,728,000	16,03,600
(2) Bronze pennies and half pennies	10,560,000	4,80,000
(3) Copper cents and half cents for the Ceylon Government	3,000,000	20,900
	147,288,000	21,03,600

28. A comparison of this total with that of the previous year shows that it exceeds the latter by 98,413,600 coins. Details of the coinage will be found in Statement II attached to this report.

29. In view of the heavy bronze coinage and munition work, purchases of copper, amounting to maunds 16,683, valued at Rs. 10,86,871-12-0, were brought to account during the year.

30. It was also found necessary to purchase a supply of tin to the extent of maunds 1,089 valued at Rs. 1,31,069-3-0.

31. Operative Losses.—The bronze operative losses on the coinage for the Government of India amounted to maunds 119 as detailed below :—

Melting loss 109 mds. @ 81 per 100% of new coin.
Coining loss 10 „ @ 08 „ „ „ „

32. The operative loss on the bronze coinage for the Australian Government amounted to maunds 14-24-0 and on the copper coinage for the Ceylon Government to 9 maunds.

33. The above operative losses are met from the charges for coinage recovered from these Governments.

34. In August 1917, the Cambay State remitted, with the consent of Government, Cambay copper coins weighing maunds 60-15-6 and valued at Rs. 4,591-1. These coins were exchanged for Government of India bronze coin to the nominal value of the above amount.

MUNITION WORK.

35. Munition work continued throughout the year, but there was a considerable diminution in the quantity of driving bands manufactured as compared with the previous year, owing to a reduction in demands received from the Ordnance Department.

36. The weight of copper lost in this work was maunds 143 on maunds 9,553 of metal operated on or at the rate of 1.06 maunds per 100 maunds.

37. In January 1918, the Indian Munitions Board enquired whether the Mint could undertake the manufacture of muntz metal sheathing for the Controller of Shipbuilding.

38. Experiments were immediately instituted and were successful and the Munitions Board was informed accordingly that the demands of the Controller of Shipbuilding for muntz metal could be met.

39. An order for the supply of considerable quantities of this metal to the Royal Indian Marine dockyards at Calcutta and Bombay, is now in hand, but owing to the shortage of suitable spelter in the local market during February to April 1918, the work has been considerably delayed, but will, it is expected, be completed in September 1918.

MISCELLANEOUS.

40. The die and engraving departments and the workshops of the Mint were as usual kept busy with much miscellaneous work. This work included the striking of medals, etc., for the Army Department and other branches of the Government service in addition to private institutions and colleges.

41. Uncertain and protracted arrivals of steel from England for the manufacture of dies was a continued source of anxiety to the Mint during the year. When matters were at their worst, a fairly large quantity of jumper or crowbar steel was purchased as an experiment at a comparatively cheap rate in the bazar. The experiment proved most successful, and by means of this steel coinage operations were carried out throughout the year without interruption. The information derived from experiment was communicated to the Bombay Mint, where, it is believed, this class of steel was also successfully employed.

42. All new coins, medals, etc., struck in this Mint during the year are illustrated on the frontispiece of this report. These were all designed in the Mint with the exception of the matrices and punches for the obverse of the King George's college medal (No. 7 on the plate) which were designed and prepared by Messrs. Wyon & Co., London.

43. In the centre of the frontispiece is exhibited a print (No. 10) from a small photograph of a new and interesting machine recently received for trial from the firm of Messrs. Siemens Bros., Ltd., of Calcutta.

44. This machine, the Siemens-Hart rupee tester, as its name implies, has been constructed for the purpose of mechanically eliminating, as far as practicable, false coin from remittances received into treasuries and Mints for examination and recoinage.

45. In the Indian Mints up to the present time the elimination of spurious rupees has invariably been carried out by visual examination, conducted by specially trained men (shroffs) and there has always been considerable difficulty in checking the work of these men.

46. The idea of making a machine to check the shroff's work originated with Mr. Hart, 1st Assistant to the Mint Master, who placed his plans at the disposal of the above-mentioned firm of Messrs. Siemens Bros., who in their turn forwarded Mr. Hart's suggestion to England, where the present machine was finally designed and constructed.

47. The machine is comparatively simple. Rupees are placed by hand into a hopper, where a wheel, by means of projecting teeth fixed in the periphery on rotation, ejects one coin at a time and causes every coin so ejected to rotate on edge and roll down a narrow inclined plane fitted with side pieces or guide strips.

48. This inclined plane delivers the coins into an intense magnetic field between the poles of two electric magnets.

49. When passing through this field, eddy-currents, or foucault-currents, are generated in the moving masses of metal. The masses of metal or coins in consequence experience retardations in proportion to the currents generated in them. Coins of superior conductivity (good coins) having the greater currents generated in them, experience most retardation, and fall into a nearer receptacle, whilst coins of inferior conductivity (base coins) experience least retardation and are carried by their greater velocity into a further receptacle. In this manner false coins are quickly and readily sorted out from genuine ones.

50. As regards accuracy the machine is probably quite as accurate in results as the induction balance, but is practically automatic and very much faster in its action, rupees having been worked off at the rate of 100 coins per minute.

51. Like the induction balance, the machine will not discriminate between coins cast or struck from metal of similar electrical conductivities.

52. Thus the machine will not differentiate between coins struck in pure silver, in pure copper, or in any alloy of pure silver and pure copper, but it will separate from the above coins, such coins as have been alloyed with a small percentage of zinc or a small percentage of tin, or a still smaller percentage of lead or with an alloy of any or all of these metals, which metals are the most commonly employed by false coiners.

53. The machine will separate copper coin from bronze coin of approximately similar size and weight. Incidentally it also separates good from Mint defective coin such as split coin or coin containing bubbles of air, and this might in some cases be considered an imperfection but cannot be avoided and necessitates a visual examination of the spurious coin finally to determine which are spurious and which are Mint defective.

54. By the agency of this machine, and notwithstanding the fact that all remittances of uncurrent coin received into the Mint from Government treasuries should have all counterfeits eliminated before despatch to the Mint, some 950 counterfeits were detected in some 25 lakhs of uncurrent coins examined, but about 150 counterfeits escaped detection, and were discovered and eliminated later by the Mint shroffs.

55. As a general rule the machine should detect and separate out about 90 per cent. of the false coin in any remittance and in a given time should do the work of 4 or 5 shroffs.

56. The electro-magnet and small motor which revolves the feed wheel must be supplied with current from a 220 volt circuit, and absorbs about 0.01 units of current per working hour.

57. The machine should prove useful in Mints, Government Treasuries, Railways and Banks.

PLANT AND MACHINERY.

58. The additions to Plant and Machinery during the year under review were not of any importance.

The following figures show the cost of working the Power Station during the financial year under report:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
B. T. units generated	9,40,825
Fuel Establishment and Stores	62,667	8	7
Depreciation at 5 per cent. on Plant and 3 per cent. on buildings and provision for pension	25,995	0	0
Total	88,662	8	7

59. The cost per unit works out as follows:—

Fuel, Establishment and Stores	12.7 pies per unit
Depreciation, Interest and Pension	5.3 "
Total cost per unit	18 pies or 1 anna 6 pies.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.

60. Charges levied.—The seignorage on silver purchased for coinage amounted to Rs. 17,65,422. The revenue under this head of account was further augmented by Rs. 10,291 being the value of assay realised through the Assay Office. The pre-melting fees amounted Rs. 299.

61. Gain on Recoinage.—The assay benefit representing the difference between the fineness of silver as invoiced and its fineness when taken into operation amounted to Rs. 51,161, but it is a question if the assay benefit taken in respect of all purchased bar silver (viz., 5 per mille) is not on occasions too high, in which case this assay benefit figure has been swelled at the expense of the Mint loss figure:

The gain by overstandard value of uncurrent silver coins withdrawn from circulation is Rs. 2,071 against Rs. 2,837 last year.

62. Cash and Transfer Receipts.—The receipts amounted to Rs. 1,83,786 as compared with Rs. 1,84,704 in the previous year. That the revenue under this head has been maintained at a high figure is chiefly due to receipts on account of charges for Colonial coinages.

63. Operative Losses.—These items are dealt with in paragraphs 15 to 18 of this report. It should be noted, however, that the "Operative Loss", as shown in the Revenue and Expenditure Statement, excludes the gain or loss by over standard weight and fineness of the new coins coined, which appears as a separate item of account.

64. Loss on Recoinage.—The loss under this head of account amounts to Rs. 1,83,645 against Rs. 2,02,880 in the previous year. The decrease is due to the gradual decline in the receipts of uncurrent coin.

65. Copper used as Alloy.—The value of copper used for alloying silver to the standard of fineness necessary for coinage amounted to Rs. 80,289 as compared with Rs. 89,751 in the previous year.

66. Copper and other metals used for contingent purposes.—The expenditure amounted to Rs. 5,444 as compared with Rs. 4,642 in the previous year.

67. Salaries and Establishment.—The expenditure under this head of account was Rs. 4,39,016 as compared with Rs. 4,58,582 in the previous year. This expenditure is still large and is due to the continued pressure of work which necessitated the extra establishment being maintained at full strength and to payment of overtime allowances for practically the whole year.

68. English and Local Stores.—The total expenditure amounted to Rs. 3,78,223 against Rs. 3,27,601 in the previous year. The increase in expenditure is due to English Stores, the demands for which were greater this year.

69. The annual verification of Europe store balances was carried out during August 1917. The surpluses and deficiencies were investigated and adjusted in the accounts.

70. Contingent and Transfer Charges.—These amounted to Rs. 69,766 as compared with Rs. 64,476 in the previous year.

71. Pro forma Receipts and Charges.—The receipts amounted to Rs. 3,43,539 and represented a credit of Rs. 3,26,789 for bronze coins manufactured at rates laid down in Finance Department letter No. 1966-F., dated 17th December 1914, and a credit of Rs. 16,750 for nickel 2-anna coins at 5 per cent. of the nominal value of the coins coined during the year.

The charges amounted to Rs. 3,28,924 and includes Rs. 2,94,127 the interest @ $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on the bullion store balance and capital account.

72. Balances Sunk in the Mint.—The daily average silver balance, excluding silver held on behalf of the Currency Department, amounted to Rs. 5,50,350. The balances reached a maximum value of Rs. 17,14,497 on 1st April 1918 and declined to a minimum of Rs. 22,990 on 10th May 1917.

GENERAL.

73. During the year two cross grinding mills were removed from a room situated to the east of the bronze melting department, and re-erected in a room east of the cutting department of the silver mint. This latter room had previously been used as a store for the rich drosses from the silver mint and considerable alterations and additions had to be made in it before it was ready to receive the mills.

74. The old dross grinding room has been converted into a strong room for the storage of bronze coin boxes, and is known as vault No. 10.

75. The workshop attached to the die department has been extended by an addition of the room formerly known as vault No. 3.

This was necessary in order to permit of the installation of additional machinery to cope with the pressure of work to which the die department had been subjected for the past two years.

COUNTERFEIT COINS.

76. During the course of examination of uncurrent silver coins from treasuries the Mint eliminated during the year counterfeit rupees 2,200, $\frac{1}{2}$ -Rs. 66, $\frac{1}{4}$ -Rs. 212 and $\frac{1}{8}$ -Rs. 357.

77. A number of counterfeit coins, generally of poor execution, were received as usual from treasuries and other offices for disposal. Details will be found in Statement IV.

OFFENCES AGAINST COINAGE.

78. The usual statement of offences against coinage is appended to this report. The total number of cases brought to trial during the calendar year 1917 was less than in the previous year. The ratio between the number of persons brought to trial and convicted was 65.7 against 61.9 of last year.

NICKEL.

7. The coinage of the two anna cupro-nickel piece, the punches for which were received from the Calcutta Mint, was commenced in March 1918. 1,108,000 coins of the value of Rs. 1,46,000 were coined of which Rs. 1,00,000 worth were remitted to the Reserve Treasury for issue to the public from the 1st April 1918.

The number of nickel one-anna pieces coined was 58,066,665 of the value of Rs. 36,29,167 being Rs. 11,86,224 in excess of last year's outturn. Rs. 26,80,500 worth were taken over by the Reserve Treasury, Bombay.

10 and 5 milliemo pieces were also minted on behalf of the Egyptian Government. 6,228,655 of these worth Rs. 5,56,579 taking 1,000 milliemes to be the equivalent of Rs. 15-6-0 were coined and Rs. 5,75,599 issued up to 31st March 1918. The total operative loss written off during the year amounted to 51 maunds, giving a percentage of .72 per 100 maunds of metal coined. This is higher than usual, the extra loss being accounted for by the fact that a large portion of the receipts of metal consisted of cupro-nickel scrap from the Ordnance factories. This scrap contained an appreciable amount of dirt and extraneous matter.

MISCELLANEOUS.

8. War work.—The Mint continued on a less degree with the manufacture of copper driving bands for shells, the building of ambulance bodies for motor cars and repairs and other miscellaneous requirements for Military Departments and the Red Cross and St. John's Ambulance.

9. Gold work.—The melting fees on gold tendered for assay amounted to Rs. 20,822 against Rs. 5,954 in the preceding year.

10. Miscellaneous work.—This included the usual supply of dies, medals, etc., the manufacture and adjustment of scales and weights and miscellaneous supplies and repairs undertaken for Government departments and the public, the profit made being Rs. 45,856.

11. Treasure trove coins.—During the year 68 treasure trove silver coins were received from the Bombay Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society. Coins of the metal value of Rs. 117 were sold during the year.

12. Mint working standards.—The weights in all the departments were periodically compared with the standards and any differences found carefully adjusted.

13. Visitors.—The Mint was open to the public twice a week throughout the year. Several Indian Chiefs and noblemen were among the visitors.

14. Analysis of revenue and expenditure.—Owing to the Nickel coinage being the largest on record the "Percentage on value of Nickel coins manufactured" and "Copper used as alloy" are largely increased. "Transfer Receipts" and "Transfer charges" also show an increase, due to large transactions with other Government Departments. The general rise in wages and the fact of the establishment being engaged throughout the year on coinage work accounts for the increase under "Extra establishment and overtime." The expenditure in 1916-17 also included larger credits on account of establishment employed on Munition work. Rs. 42,658 expended during the year on the building of a branch of the Royal Mint for the coinage of sovereigns is not included in Statement I.

15. Resume of revenue and expenditure.—The results of the transactions of the year as summarised in Statement No. 1 shows a gain of Rs. 18,96,300 on the year's operations.

16. Balances sunk in the mint.—The balances of silver bullion belonging to Government valued at one rupee per tola of standard fineness, stood at the beginning of the year at Rs. 33,243 and at its close Rs. 1,78,273. The average daily balance was Rs. 3,45,170. The minimum daily balance was Rs. 577 from the 5th April to 12th April 1917 and the maximum was Rs. 18,40,120 on the 13th August 1917.

OFFENCES AGAINST THE COINAGE.

17. Return of counterfeit coins.—The usual return of counterfeit coins is appended to this report:—

- (a) 1,716 counterfeit coins (1,371 rupees, 66 half-rupees, 100 quarters, and 179 one-eighths) were received for examination during the year as against 966 in 1916-17. 294 of these were struck and the remainder castings. They were all cut and returned to the tenderers, including the railways, as they were mainly of inferior workmanship or composition.
- (b) 992 counterfeit coins (626 rupees, 27 half-rupees, 119 quarters, and 220 one-eighths) were discovered in remittances of uncurrent coins to the Mint as against 1,429 in the previous year.
- (c) During the year under report 37,348 counterfeit coins were cut at the treasuries and railways as against 45,982 in 1916-17.
- (d) 135 one-anna pieces received during the year were found to be palpable cast counterfeits of lead and tin or other similar alloys.

GENERAL.

18. Mr. G. A. H. Gross, Head Melter, retired in December 1917 after a service of over 43 years in both the Calcutta and Bombay Mints. His ripe experience and willing service will be missed.

19. During a period of very considerable stress the Mint staff throughout gave their best willingly. The strain during the year under report was very severe and was intensified owing to shortage of supervision, due to some of the staff being on war service and others taking necessary leave to recuperate, and scarcity of labour, on account of recruitment for military purposes and the very busy state of all industry in Bombay.

Miscellaneous Assays.

8. Of the 94 assays under the head "Assays on Various Metals and Ores" two assays were made on counterfeit coins. The remainder were samples of nickel and copper received from the Mint Master.

Verification of Weight Pieces.

9. During the year the following Assay Office weights have been verified :—

viz., the Reference Standard Tola Set (1914).

10. Although the number of assays during the year under review is less than in 1916-17 it has been a year of hard and strenuous work for the Bombay Assay Office.

11. The post of Assay Master was held by Lieutenant-Colonel J. Lloyd Jones, I.M.S., from 1st April to 27th September 1917 and from 29th October 1917 to the end of the financial year. He went on privilege leave from 28th September to 28th October 1917. He retired from Government service on 28th April 1918. Lieutenant-Colonel F. T. Cunynghame Hughes, I.A., took charge of the office of the Assay Master, Bombay, from 28th April 1918.

12. The post of Deputy Assay Master, Bombay, was held by Major H. J. K. Wallis, I.A., from 1st April 1917 to 11th March 1918, together with the duty of Officiating Assay Master, Bombay, from 29th September to 28th October 1917. CHIEF COMMISSIONER, ASSAM.Revenue Department.*NOTIFICATION.

Shillong, the 5th September 1918.

No. 2530-R.—The following is published for general information with reference to section 42 of the Land Acquisition Act, I of 1894:—

Memorandum of agreement made this 3rd day of August 1918 between the Burma Oil Company, Limited, a Company registered under the English Companies Act, and having its registered office at 175, West George Street, Glasgow in Scotland, principal place of business in the East at 21, Merchant Street, Rangoon, hereinafter called "the Company" of the one part and the Secretary of State for India in Council (and on his behalf the Chief Commissioner of Assam) hereinafter called "The Secretary of State" of the other part.

Whereas for the purpose of the construction of a Ghat for shipping oil the Company has applied to the Chief Commissioner of Assam for the acquisition under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, of the piece or parcel of land containing 2.01 acres or thereabouts situate in the village of Thandapur pargana Saraspur in the District of Cachar and more particularly described in the schedule hereto and delineated in the plan hereunto annexed.

And whereas the said Chief Commissioner of Assam, being satisfied by an enquiry held under section 40 of the said Act that the proposed acquisition is needed for the aforesaid purpose and that the said work is likely to prove useful to the public, has consented to acquire on behalf of the Company the piece or parcel of land hereinbefore described.

And whereas the said Chief Commissioner of Assam has required the Company under the provisions of section 41 of the abovementioned Act to enter into the agreement with the Secretary of State hereinafter contained. Now this indenture witnesseth that it is hereby agreed and declared as follows:—

1. On demand the Company shall and will pay to the said Chief Commissioner of Assam all and every compensation in respect of the said land tendered, paid or awarded or to be tendered, paid or awarded, by the Collector of Cachar under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or by the Court to which a reference under part III of the said Act may be made, or by the Court or Courts to which an appeal from the award of the said Court may be preferred, and all costs, charges and expenses of the proceedings in the aforesaid Courts, or otherwise incidental to the proposed acquisition or payable in respect thereof under the provisions of the said Act.

2. On demand made by the said Collector the obligations of the Company under the last preceding clause not being thereby limited the Company shall and will deposit with the said Collector such sum or sums of money as in his discretion the said Collector may in anticipation estimate to be necessary for the purposes mentioned in the last preceding clause.

3. On payment by the Company of all demands under the foregoing first clause, or, in the discretion of the said Chief Commissioner of Assam (on deposit by the Company of all estimated amounts as provided in the 2nd clause), but not before possession shall have been taken under the provisions of the abovementioned Act, the Secretary of State shall make over possession of the said land to the Company and shall execute and do all such acts and deeds as may be necessary and proper for effectually vesting the same in the Company.

4. The said land shall be held by the Company for the purpose of such a Ghat for shipping oil as is hereinbefore mentioned and without the sanction in writing of the said Chief Commissioner of Assam first had and obtained for no other purpose whatsoever.

5. The said Ghat shall be completed and fully equipped in all respects ready for use within one year from the date on which possession of the said land shall have been given to the Company.

6. Should the said Ghat not be completed (and fully equipped in all respects ready for use) within the period stated in the last preceding clause or within such further period as in his discretion may be prescribed or allowed by the said Chief Commissioner of Assam, or should the said land at any time thereafter cease for a period of six consecutive months, to be held, and used, or cease to be required for the purpose or purposes provided for in the foregoing fourth clause, then and in any such case, the said Chief Commissioner of Assam may summarily re-enter upon and take possession of the said land and thereupon the interest of the Company in the said land shall absolutely cease and determine.

7. On taking such possession, the said Chief Commissioner of Assam may sell or otherwise deal with the said land and structures as he may think proper. Should the said Chief Commissioner of Assam sell the said land and structures the said Chief Commissioner of Assam after deducting the expenses incurred in connection with the said taking of possession and with such sale shall pay the proceeds to the Company. Should the said Chief Commissioner of Assam, on taking possession, decide not to sell the land, it shall repay to the Company all sums received from the Company in respect of all and every compensation as provided in the foregoing first clause (less the Statutory allowance of 10 per cent.), but will not repay any sums paid and received on account of costs, charges and expenses.

8. Any person or Company desiring to ship crude oil in bulk produced in his or their prospecting or mining lease, at this Ghat, shall be allowed to do so on reasonable terms; in case of the parties being unable to agree on the terms, the matter shall be referred to the Deputy Commissioner of Cachar as arbitrator, whose decision shall be final.

NOTICES.THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

NOTICES.THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1916, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. These rules may be called the Rajputana Railway Lands Explosives Rules, 1918.
2. Nothing in these rules shall apply—
 - (i) to the manufacture, possession, sale, packing, transport or importation of paper caps for toy pistols, under such conditions and in such quantities as the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana, or, in the case of transport by rail, the Railway Board, on the recommendation of the Chief Inspector of Explosives, may from time to time determine;
 - (ii) to
 - (a) the manufacture, possession and sale of tri-nitro-toluol, or
 - (b) the transport and importation of the same when it is packed in staunch and substantial barrels or in cases constructed of wood not less than one inch in thickness.*

*Further exemptions are made by section 14 of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884, which runs as follows:—
“Nothing in this Act shall apply to the manufacture, possession, sale, transport or importation by use, sale, transport or importation of any explosive—
(a) by order of the Government, or
(b) by any person employed under the Government in the execution of this Act, or as a keeper of a magazine, artisan, soldier, sailor, policeman or otherwise, or enrolled as a volunteer, under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, in the course of his employment or duty as such.”

Short title.
General exemptions.

8. In these rules, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context :—

(1) "The Act" means the Indian Explosives Act, 1884, as applied to the Rajputana Railway lands. Definitions.
[IV of 1884.]

(2) "Ammunition" means any explosive when the same is enclosed in any case or contrivance; or is otherwise adapted or prepared, so as to form—

- (a) a cartridge or charge for small-arms, cannon or any other weapon, or for blasting, or
- (b) a safety or other fuze for blasting or for shells, or
- (c) a tube for firing explosives, or
- (d) a percussion-cap, detonator, fog-signal, shell, torpedo, war-rocket, or any other contrivance other than a fire-work.

(3) "Authorised explosive" means an explosive included in a list of authorised explosives prepared by the Chief Inspector of Explosives with the Government of India and in force for the time being.

(4) "Chlorate-mixture" means any explosive containing a chlorate.

(5) "Detonator" means a capsule or case which is of such strength and construction, and contains fulminate in such quantity, that the explosion of one capsule or case would communicate the explosion to other like capsules or cases.

(6) "District authority" means the officer exercising the powers of a District Magistrate.

(7) "Fulminate" means any chemical compound or mechanical mixture whatever, which, from its great susceptibility to detonation, is suitable for employment in percussion-caps or any other appliance for developing detonation, or which, from its extreme sensibility to explosion and from its great instability (that is to say, readiness to undergo decomposition from very slight exciting causes), is especially dangerous.

(8) "Gunpowder" means gunpowder ordinarily so called.

(9) "Nitrate-mixture" means any preparation, other than gunpowder, which is formed by the mechanical mixture of nitrate with any form of carbon or with any carbonaceous substance not possessed of explosive properties, whether sulphur be or be not added to such preparation, and whether such preparation be or be not mechanically mixed with any other non-explosive substance:

and includes such explosives as—

Chilworth special powder,
Ammonal,

Bobbinite, and Westfallite.

(10) "Nitro-compound" means any chemical compound which is possessed of explosive properties or is capable of combining with metals to form an explosive compound, and is produced by the chemical action of nitric acid (whether mixed or not with sulphuric acid), or of a nitrate mixed with sulphuric acid upon any carbonaceous substance, whether such compound is mechanically mixed with other substances or not.

(11) "Small-arm nitro-compound" means a nitro-compound adopted and intended exclusively for use in cartridges for small-arms.

(12) "Safety cartridge"—

(i) means a cartridge for small-arms, the case of which can be extracted from the small-arm after firing, and which is so closed as to prevent any explosion in one cartridge being communicated to other cartridges; and

(ii) includes a rifle-calibre machine-gun cartridge, if it is as described in clause (i) whether it is for use with a machine-gun having chambers identical with those of rifles or with a machine-gun having special chambers:

Provided that the diameter of the cartridge in either case (i) or case (ii) does not exceed one inch.

(13) "Safety fuze" means a fuze for blasting which burns and does not explode, and which does not contain its own means of ignition, and which is of such strength and construction, and contains an explosive in such quantity, that the burning of such fuze would not communicate laterally with other like fuzes.

(14) "Testing authority" means the Chemical Examiner or such other officer as the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana may appoint in this behalf.

CHAPTER II.

95. The consignor shall (in the case of nitro-compounds and chlorate-mixtures)—

- (1) cause the outer packages to be marked with the date of manufacture, and
- (2) attach to the consignment note a certificate, or (provided the original is produced Certificate in case of nitro-compounds and chlorates. for verification) copy of a certificate, (so describing the packages as to render their identification certain) signed by the Chief Inspector of Explosives or an Inspector of Explosives, or, if the certificate is granted at the time when the explosive is imported, by the Chemical Examiner or Analyst—

Discretion of Railway to refuse improperly-packed
explosives.
Disposal of consignment on arrival at station or departure.

96. The Railway Administration may refuse to receive any packages which they suspect to contain any explosive packed or sent in contravention of these regulations.

97. Every package containing any explosive proposed to be conveyed on any railway shall immediately on arrival at the station be unloaded and placed in a safe place under the special direction of the officer in charge of the station. These packages should not be allowed to stand in the sun.

Loading.

Maximum quantities to be conveyed in one vehicle.

98. The quantity of explosives conveyed in any one vehicle shall not in any case exceed that specified in rule 75 and shall not (unless the vehicle is specially constructed and approved by the Railway Board for the carriage of explosives) exceed two-thirds of the normal load of such vehicle:

Provided that (in the case of explosives of the kinds specified in rule 103) the quantity of explosives shall not—

(a) where such explosives are stowed in the manner described in clause (1) of that rule exceed three tons, and

(b) where such explosives are stowed in the manner described in clause (2) of that rule exceed five tons.

Prohibition of conveyance with
substances.

99. There shall not be conveyed in the same vehicle with any explosive any lucifer or other matches, fuzes, pipe-lights, acids, naphtha, paraffine, petroleum or any other volatile spirit substance liable to give off an inflammable vapour or liable to spontaneous ignition, of to cause or communicate fire or explosion.

Condition of vehicle.

100. Vehicles used for the carriage of explosives shall be examined to see that they are spark-proof, and have been cleaned out before they are loaded. Hair-cloth, hides or other suitable materials shall be spread on the floor of the wagon and between each layer of packages, except when the packages are covered with gunny or felt, or contain safety cartridges for small arms packed in tin-lined service pattern boxes.

Stowing of explosives.

101. All packages containing explosives shall be secured in such a way as to prevent concussion when the train is in motion.

Method of stowing
explosives.

102. Packages containing explosives other than those referred to in rule 103 shall not be stowed in more than three layers one above the other. But if the packages are in rectangular form and of uniform size (provided they are double packages, and are so secured as to prevent movement during transit) they may be stowed in any number of layers not exceeding five:

Provided that this rule shall not apply to safety cartridges for small-arms packed in tin-lined service pattern boxes.

Method of stowing
of high explosives.

103. (1) Packages containing dynamite and other blasting explosives of the 3rd (nitro-compound) Class or explosives of the 4th (chlorate-mixture), 5th (fulminate) Classes or of the 1st Division of the 7th (firework) Class shall be stowed in one layer only and secured so as to prevent movement during transit:

(2) Provided that, if the packages of explosives are in rectangular form and are properly secured so as to prevent movement during transit, they may be stowed in any number of layers not exceeding five.

Loading of vehicles.

104. Vehicles shall in every case be locked when loaded with explosives.

Delivery.

Delivery to consignee.

105. The consignee shall remove the explosives from the receiving station during the twelve hours of daylight following its arrival.

Disposal when consignee fails to take delivery.

106. If the consignee does not remove the explosive within the time allowed by rule 105 the Railway Administration may return the explosive to the consignor at his risk and expense.

Protection of ex-
removal.

107. Pending removal by the consignee, or return to the consignor, the explosive shall be kept at a safe distance from the station buildings, and (if unloaded) shall be completely covered with tarpaulins or other suitable material and, if necessary, shall be protected by a police guard.

Power to open packages.

Opening of suspected packages.

108. The Railway Administration may at any time open or require to be opened at the risk and expense of the consignor any package which is upon any railway and which is suspected to contain explosives packed or consigned in contravention of any of these rules.

Disposal of opened packages.

109. The railway Administration may return to the consignor at his risk and expense the contents of any package which is found during transit to have been packed or consigned in contravention of any of these rules.

Precautions to be observed during loading and unloading.

110. Notwithstanding anything in rule 69 a small consignment of explosives may be unloaded between sunset and sunrise. Time of loading and unloading.

For the purposes of this rule no consignment of more than half a wagon load booked to one station shall be deemed to be a small consignment.

111. Subject to the provisions of rules 64 and 110, the loading and unloading of explosives when once begun shall be diligently proceeded with until the same is completed. Loading and unloading to be continuous.

112. Vehicles containing explosives shall be loaded and unloaded on sidings at a safe distance from the station buildings. a Place of loading and unloading.

113. All explosives under despatch or receipt by a Government arsenal, dépôt or factory shall be loaded or unloaded by Government servants employed in such arsenal, dépôt or factory. Loading and unloading of Government explosives.

114. Not more than five vehicles containing explosives shall be loaded or unloaded at any railway station, at any one time. Maximum number of vehicles to be dealt with at a time.

115. All operations connected with the transshipment of explosives at junction stations shall take place during daylight. Time of transshipment.

117. No explosive of the 5th (fulminate) Class or of the 3rd Division of the 6th (ammunition) Class, or of the 7th (firework) Class shall be carried in the same train with any explosive not of the Class and Division to which it belongs, unless it be sufficiently separated therefrom to prevent any fire or explosion which may take place in one such explosive being communicated to another. Precaution in the case of high explosives.

118. Vehicles containing explosives shall be placed at the end of the train away from the locomotive, and shall be close-coupled to one another as well as to the adjoining vehicles and shall be preceded and followed by three vehicles not loaded with explosives or other article or substance of an inflammable nature. Position of vehicle in the train.

119. When the train is being marshalled, vehicles loaded with explosive shall not be shunted by a locomotive, unless they are separated from the engine by not less than three vehicles containing no explosive nor easily inflammable substance. Shunting.

Provided that nothing in this rule shall apply to the shunting of vehicles specially constructed for the carriage of explosives.

120. During the shunting of vehicles containing explosives the speed of all movements shall not exceed five miles an hour; and loose shunts are prohibited. Limit of speed in shunting.

121. No shunting shall be carried on save under the superintendence of a duly authorised officer, who shall see to the observance of rules 119 and 120. Superintendence in shunting.

Brakes.

122. If the vehicles employed in the transport of explosives are provided with brakes, other than iron brakes, the brakes thereon shall on no account be worked while the vehicles are running with a train, nor shall brakes, other than iron brakes, on vehicles immediately adjoining such vehicles, be worked while such vehicles are so running. SCHEDULE I.

PRESCRIBED TESTS.

[Vide rule 16.]

I.—Heat Test as applied to Explosives of the Nitro-compound Class.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

Apparatus required.

1. A water bath, consisting of a spherical glass or copper vessel [(a) Fig. I] of about 8 inches diameter, and with an aperture of about 5 inches; the bath is filled with water to within a quarter of an inch of the edge. It has a loose cover of sheet copper about 6 inches in diameter (b), and rests on a tripod stand about 14 inches high (c), which is covered with coarse iron wire gauze (e), and is surrounded with a screen of thin sheet tin or copper (d). Within the latter is placed an Argand burner (f), with glass chimney. The cover (b) has four holes arranged as seen in Fig. II, No. 4 to receive the regulator, No. 3 the thermometer, Nos. 1 and 2 the test-tubes containing the gun-cotton or other materials to be tested. Around holes 1 and 2 on the under side of the cover are soldered three pieces of brass wire with points slightly converging (Fig. III); these act as springs and allow the test-tubes to be easily placed in position and removed.

- * 2. Scheibler's or Page's temperature regulator.
- * 3. Two cells of Le Clanché's battery No. 1 }
- * 4. A few yards of insulated copper wire } if Scheibler's regulator is used.
- 5. Test-tubes from 5½ to 5¾ inches long, and of such diameter that they will hold from 20 to 22 cubic centimetres of water when filled to a height of 5 inches.
- 6. India-rubber stoppers, fitting the test-tubes and carrying an arrangement for holding the test-paper, viz., a narrow glass tube passing through the centre of the stopper, drawn out so as to form a hook, or terminating in a platinum wire hook (Fig. IV).
- 7. A thermometer, with range not less than from 80° to 212° Fahrenheit.
- 8. A minute clock.

Materials required.

(a) Test-paper.—The test-paper is prepared as follows:—45 grains of white maize starch (cornflour), previously washed with cold water, are added to 8½ ounces of distilled water; the mixture is stirred, heated to boiling, and kept gently boiling for 10 minutes; 15 grains of pure potassium iodide (i.e., which has been re-crystallized from alcohol) are dissolved in 8½ ounces of distilled water. The two solutions are thoroughly mixed and allowed to get cold. Strips, or sheets, of best white English filter paper, weighing air dry, from 4.1 to 4.6

grammes per 100 square inches, previously washed with water and re-dried, are dipped into the solution thus prepared, and allowed to remain in it for not less than 10 seconds; they are then allowed to drain and dry in a place free from laboratory fumes and dust. The upper and lower margins of the strips, or sheets, are cut off, and the paper is preserved in well-stoppered or corked bottles and in the dark. * The dimensions of the pieces of test-paper used are about $\frac{1}{10}$ inch by $\frac{8}{10}$ inch (10 mm. by 20 mm.).

(b) Standard tint-paper.—A solution of caramel in water is made of such concentration that when diluted one hundred times (10 cc. made up to 1 litre) the tint of this diluted solution equals the tint produced by the Nessler test in 100 cc. water containing 0.000076 gm. of ammonia or 0.00028505 gm. of chloride of ammonium. With this caramel solution lines are drawn on strips of white filter paper† by means of a clean quill pen. When the marks thus produced are dry the paper is cut into pieces of the same size as the test-paper previously described, in such a way that each piece has a brown line across it near the middle of its length, and only such strips are preserved in which the brown line has a breadth varying from $\frac{1}{4}$ mm. to 1 mm. ($\frac{1}{20}$ of an inch to $\frac{1}{10}$ of an inch).

II.—Testing Dynamite, Blasting Gelatine, and other Explosives of the First Division of the Nitro-compound Class.

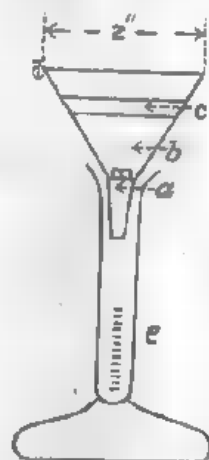

A.—DYNAMITE, ETC., ETC.

Nitro-glycerine preparations, from which the nitro-glycerine can be extracted in the manner described below, must satisfy the following test.

This test, however, though at present looked upon as the most important as far as testing the purity of the nitro-glycerine is concerned, is in England only one of several which any given sample of nitro-glycerine preparation has to satisfy in order to establish its compliance with the definition in the Authorised List.

Apparatus required.

A funnel 2 inches across (d), a cylindrical measure divided into grains (e) (See sketch).

Mode of operation.

About 300 to 400 grains of dynamite (b) finely divided are placed into the funnel which has previously been loosely plugged by some freshly-ignited asbestos (a).

The surface is smoothed by means of a flat-headed glass rod or stopper, and some clean washed and dried Kieselguhr (c) is spread over it to the depth of about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch.

Water is next carefully dropped from a wash bottle upon this Kieselguhr, and when the first portion has been soaked up more is added; this is repeated until sufficient nitro-glycerine has been collected in the graduated measure (e) below.

If any water should have passed through with the nitro-glycerine, it should be removed with a piece of blotting paper, and the nitro-glycerine, if necessary, filtered through a dry paper filter.

* When a paper is freshly prepared, and as long as it remains in good condition, a drop of dilute acetic acid, put on the paper with a glass rod, produces no coloration. In process of time, however, the stronger the light to which the paper is exposed, the sooner a drop of acid produces a brown or bluish coloration (a single hour of direct sunlight produces a marked effect), and whenever this is the case the paper should be rejected. After preparation the paper should be kept in the dark for a month before being taken into use. After that, if carefully kept in the dark, it will remain good for 6 months or more, but should be tested from time to time as above.

† This paper must be carefully washed with distilled water in the first instance, to remove any traces of bleaching matter, and dried.

Application of the Test.

The thermometer is fixed so as to be inserted through the lid of the water bath described under I, into the water (which is to be steadily maintained at a temperature of 160° Fahr.*) to a depth of 2½ inches. Fifty grains of nitro-glycerine to be tested are weighed into a test-tube in such a way as not to soil the sides of the tube. A test paper is fixed on the hook of the glass rod so that when inserted into the tube it will be in a vertical position. A sufficient amount of a mixture of half distilled water and half glycerine to moisten the upper half of the paper is now applied to the upper edge of the test-paper by means of a camel's-hair pencil, the cork carrying the rod and paper is fixed into the test-tube and the position of the paper adjusted, so that its lower edge is about half-way down the tube; the latter is then inserted through one of the perforations of the cover to such a depth that the lower margin of the moistened part of the paper is about five-eighths of an inch above the surface of the cover. The test is complete when the faint brown line, which after a time makes its appearance at the line of boundary between the dry and moist part of the paper, equals in tint the brown line of the standard tint paper.

The nitro-glycerine under examination will not be considered to have satisfied the test unless the time necessary to produce the standard tint as above described is at least 15 minutes.

B.—BLASTING GELATINE, GELATINE DYNAMITE, AND ANALOGOUS PREPARATIONS.

Fifty (50) grains of blasting gelatine are to be intimately incorporated with one hundred (100) grains of French chalk.† The mixture is to be gradually introduced into a test-tube of the dimensions prescribed above for the dynamite heat test, with the aid of gentle tapping upon the table, between the introduction of successive portions of the mixture into the tube, so that when the tube contains all the mixture it shall be filled to the extent of 1½ inches (one inch and three-quarters) of its height. The test-paper is then to be inserted and the heat is to be applied in the manner prescribed above for the dynamite heat test, and the sample tested is to withstand exposure to 160° Fahr. for a period of ten (10) minutes, before producing a discoloration of the test-papers corresponding in tint to the standard colour test which is employed for governing the results of the dynamite heat tests.

(For Exudation and Liquefaction tests for Blasting Gelatine, etc., etc., see Appendix.)

N.B.—Non-gelatinized nitro-glycerine preparations from which the nitro-glycerine cannot be expelled by water, are tested without any previous separation of the ingredients, the temperature being as above (160° Fahr.) and the time being seven (7) minutes.

C.—CORDITE AND BALLISTITE.1. Apparatus required.

The apparatus necessary for the application of the heat test to cordite is identical with that described above for explosives of the nitro-compound class generally‡ with the addition of a mill and a nest of sieves§ similar to those used at Waltham Abbey for preparing the cordite for testing (see instructions below).

2. Preparation of the sample to be tested.

Pieces half an inch long are cut from one end of every stick selected for the test; in the case of the thicker cordites, each piece so cut is further sub-divided into about four portions. These cut pieces are then passed once through the mill, the first portion of material which passes through being rejected on account of the possible presence of foreign matter from the mill. The ground material is put on the top sieve of the nest of sieves and sifted. The portion which has passed through the top sieve and been stopped by the second is taken for the test. If the mill is properly set the greater portion of the ground material will be of the proper size.

If the volatile matter in the explosive exceeds 0.5 per cent the sifted material should be dried at a temperature not exceeding 140° Fahr. until the proportion does not exceed 0.5 per cent.

After each sample has been ground, the mill must be taken to pieces and carefully cleaned.

* For explosives supplied for His Majesty's Military and Naval Services the temperature is fixed by the War Office at 180°.

† This can be readily effected by carefully working the two materials together with a wooden pestle in a wooden mortar.

‡ The French chalk should be of good commercial quality, and, after being carefully washed with distilled water and dried in a water oven, it should be exposed under a bell jar to moist air until it has taken up about 0.5 per cent of moisture. It should then be bottled for use; and with ordinary care the limits of 0.5 per cent can be maintained in keeping.

§ In the Waltham Abbey apparatus the cover (Fig. II) has all the holes around the circumference instead of having one in the centre and three around the circumference.

¶ A nest of two sieves with the holes drilled in sheet copper. The holes in the top sieve have a diameter = 14 B. W. G., those in the second = 21 B. W. G.

If too hard for the mill, it may be softened by exposure to the vapour of acetone, or reduced to the necessary degree of sub-division by means of a sharp moderately coarse rasp. Should it have become too soft in the acetone vapour for the mill, it should be cut up into small pieces which may be brought to any desired degree of hardness by simple exposure to air.

Explosives which consist partly of gelatinized collodion cotton and partly of ungelatinized gun-cotton are best reduced to powder by a rasp, or softened by exposure to mixed ether and alcohol vapour at a temperature of 80° to 100° Fahr.

3. Application of the Test.

The thermometer is fixed so as to be inserted through the lid of the water bath described under paragraph 1, so as to be immersed in the water to a depth of $2\frac{3}{4}$ inches. The water is maintained at a constant temperature of 180° Fahr. When this temperature is reached, 25 grains of the sifted cordite are put into one of the test-tubes, and collected at the bottom by gentle tapping. A test paper is fixed on to the hook of the glass rod, so that when inserted into the tube it will be in a vertical position. A mixture of equal parts of distilled water and pure glycerine (Price's) is now applied to the upper edge of the test paper by means of a camel's-hair pencil, in sufficient amount to moisten the upper half; the stopper carrying the rod and paper is fixed into the test-tube and the position of the paper adjusted so that its lower edge is about half-way down the tube; the latter is then inserted through one of the perforations of the cover to the same depth as the thermometer. The lower margin of the moistened part of the paper should then be about five-eighths of an inch above the surface of the cover. The test is completed when the faint brown line, which after a time makes its appearance at the margin between the wet and dry portions of the test-paper, equals in depth of tint the brown line drawn on the standard tint paper.

4. The time which elapses between the insertion of the test-tube and the completion of the test must not be less than 15 minutes.

N.B.—In the case of ballistite the treatment is the same except that when it is in a very finely granulated condition it need not be cut up.

III.—Testing Gun-cotton, Schultz's Gun Powder, E. C. Powder, and other explosives, of the 2nd Division of the Nitro-compound Class.

A.—COMPRESSED NITRO-CELLULOSE, TONITE, ETC., ETC.

Sufficient material to serve for two or more tests is removed from the centre of the cartridge by gentle scraping, and, if necessary, further reduced by rubbing through a sieve with a clean hard brush.

The fine powder thus produced is spread out in a thin layer upon a paper tray 6 inches by $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches which is then placed inside a water oven, kept, as nearly as possible, at 120° Fahr.

The wire gauze shelves in the oven should be about 3 inches apart. The sample is allowed to remain at rest for 15 minutes in the oven, the door of which is left wide open.

After the lapse of 15 minutes the tray is removed and exposed to the air of the room for two hours, the sample being at some point within that time rubbed upon the tray with a brush in order to reduce it to a fine and uniform state of division.

Application of the Test.

The cover of the water bath is fitted with the gas regulator which is inserted through the centre (hole No. 4). The thermometer is fixed into hole No. 3. The water in the bath is then heated to 170° Fahr., and the regulator set to maintain that temperature. Twenty grains of the sample to be tested are weighed out, placed in the test-tube, and gently pressed down until the specimen occupies a space of not more than $1\frac{1}{8}$ inches in a test-tube of the dimensions specified. A test-paper is affixed to the hook of the glass rod or tube, and moistened by touching the upper edge with a drop of distilled water containing 60 per cent. of Price's glycerine. The quantity of liquid used must be only sufficient to moisten about half of the paper. The cork carrying the rod and test-paper is then fixed into the test-tube, and the latter inserted into the bath to a depth of $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches, measured from the cover, the regulator and thermometer being inserted to the same depth. The test-paper is to be kept near the top of the test tube, but clear of the cork, until the tube has been immersed for about five minutes. A ring of moisture will about this time be deposited upon the sides of the test-tube a little above the cover of the bath; the glass rod must then be lowered until the lower margin of the moistened part of the paper is on a level with the bottom of the ring of moisture in the tube; the paper is now closely watched. The test is complete when the faint brown line which makes its appearance at the line of boundary between the dry and moist parts of the paper, equals in tint the brown line of the standard tint paper.

The interval of time between the first insertion of the tube containing the sample of gun-cotton in the water at 170° and the production of the standard tint constitutes the test, and this interval of time must be not less than 10 minutes, or the sample will not be considered to have satisfied the test.

B.—GELATINIZED AND SEMI-GELATINIZED NITRO-CELLULOSE PREPARATIONS.*

Twenty-five grains introduced into the test-tube* of the dimensions prescribed for the dynamite heat test, then proceed as for blasting gelatine, etc., taking the temperature at 180° Fahr., and the time as 15 minutes.

* If in a compressed form it should be broken up in the same manner as cordite and ballistite.

C.—NITRO-CELLULOSE NOT INCLUDED IN A. OR B. SCHULTZ'S POWDER, E. C. POWDER, ETC., ETC.

Sufficient of the sample, without further mechanical division, is dried in the oven as above and then exposed for two hours to the air. The test as directed above for compressed nitro-cellulose, etc., is then applied, the minimum duration of test being the same, viz., 10 minutes.

D.—PICRIC ACID.

(1) The material shall contain not more than 0.3 part of mineral or non-combustible matter in 100 parts by weight of the material dried at 160° Fahr.

(2) It should not contain more than a minute trace of lead.

(3) One hundred parts of the dry material shall not contain more than 0.3 part of total (free and combined) sulphuric acid, of which not more than 0.1 part shall be free sulphuric acid.

(4) Its melting point should be between 248° and 253° Fahr.

E.—AMMONITE, BELLITE, ROBURITE, AND EXPLOSIVES OF SIMILAR COMPOSITION.

These are required to stand the same heat test as compressed nitro-cellulose.

IV.—Testing Chlorate-Mixtures.

The material must not be too sensitive* and must show no tendency to increase in sensitivity on keeping.

The material must contain nothing liable to reduce the chlorate.

Chlorides calculated as potassium chloride must not exceed 0.25 per cent.

The material must contain no free acid, or substance liable to produce free acid.

Explosives of this class containing nitro-compounds will be subject to the heat test as if they belonged to Class III.

V.—Testing Ammunition (Divisions 2 and 3).

Any explosive made up into ammunition (other than Division 1), for which a test is provided in the schedule, is to be tested as if not so made up.

APPENDIX.

Exudation and Liquefaction Test for Blasting Gelatine, Gelatine Dynamite and analogous Preparations.

TEST FOR LIQUEFACTION.

A cylinder of blasting gelatine is to be cut from the cartridge to be tested, the length of the cylinder to be about equal to its diameter and the ends being cut flat.

The cylinder is to be placed on end on a flat surface without any wrapper, and secured by a pin passing vertically through its centre.

In this condition the cylinder is to be exposed for one hundred and forty-four (144) consecutive hours (six days and nights) to a temperature ranging from 85° to 90° Fahr. (inclusive), and during such exposure the cylinder shall not diminish in height by more than one-fourth of its original height, and the upper cut surface shall retain its flatness and the sharpness of its edge.

Note.—If the blasting gelatine and the gelatine dynamite to be tested be not made up in a cylindrical form the above test is to be applied with the necessary modifications.

TEST FOR LIABILITY TO EXUDATION.

There shall be no separation from the general mass of the blasting gelatine or gelatine dynamite of a substance of less consistency than the bulk of the remaining portion of the materials under any conditions of storage, transport, or use, or when the material is subjected three times in succession to alternate freezing and thawing, or when subjected to the liquefaction test hereinbefore described.

* They will be considered too sensitive if they can be exploded however partially by means of a glancing blow with a broomstick on soft wood (such as deal).

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.
 2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Patent Office Handbook (price one rupee) which contains the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules) Act, 1915, the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules, 1915, together with current regulations and instructions. These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.
 3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. For information regarding patents in countries other than India applications should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.
 4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.
 5. Trade and property marks and names are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration. Neither does this Act deal with pictures, photographs, etc., for which copyright is obtainable under the Indian Copyright Act, 1914.

REPORT ON THE OPERATIONS OF THE CURRENCY DEPARTMENT
DURING THE YEAR 1917-18.

From—M. M. S. GUBBAY, Esq., C.B.I., C.I.A., I.C.S., Controller of Currency,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Finance Department, Simla.

SIR,

I have the honour to submit my report on the operations of the Currency Department, the movement of funds, and the resource operations of the Government of India for the year 1917-18. The report was ready for publication at the end of September but its issue had necessarily to be delayed by reason of the discovery of certain important omissions from the trade statistics of the year on which are based the table in paragraph 2 and the narrative in paragraphs 3 to 12.

The record of the financial and currency events of the year marks Introductory. another definite stage in the development of tendencies which previous Currency Reports have noticed as characteristic of the second of the two periods into which the history of the working of the Indian currency system under war conditions falls. This period opens with the revival in the autumn of 1915 of activity in the export trade which set in on the passing away of the disturbing effects caused by the first shock of war. Since then there has been an expanding demand for Indian products, both from the Allies and from neutrals. Much of this demand has been of a war character, and therefore not subject to the limiting influence of advancing prices, and of many of the principal Indian products it may be said that they have enjoyed a practical monopoly in the world's markets. Concurrently, the manufacturing activities and the industrial power of Europe and America have been diverted, to an increasing extent, to the production of war material thereby resulting in a contraction of the output of goods which other countries have been able to export to India. On the other hand, the huge structures of credit which the exigencies of war finance have compelled belligerents and many neutrals to create have led to a jealous economy by them of their gold reserves. A decrease in the world production of gold and silver, accompanied by an increase in the coinage demand for the latter metal, has further added to the difficulties with which foreign consumers of Indian products have been faced in liquidating the debts due by them to India. The events of this period group themselves, therefore, round the central fact, that foreign countries have been unable or unwilling to correct the adverse balance against them through the usual method of exportation to India of goods or of treasure. One consequence has been that the financial relations between India and other countries have undergone a sensible modification. Another result has been that an appreciating value has attached to the rupee in the international exchanges. Normally the interdependence between the Government and the trade transactions which forms the central feature of the Indian currency system provides an automatic mechanism whereby ultimately an adjustment of the trade balance can be effected. But under war conditions the operation of this mechanism is limited in two ways. In the first place the Government of India in the discharge of obligations assumed in connection with the financing of military operations in certain theatres of war, have themselves become the largest individual exporters of war supplies and services, and have thereby been involved in large disbursements in India on behalf of His Majesty's Government. The financing of these disbursements has naturally had to take precedence of other demands. In the second place, though the sums so disbursed in India by Government have been repaid in London, their re-transfer to India is only possible through the shipment of gold or silver to India, and here the same limitations have operated to curtail these counter remittances by Government as have just been shown to constitute the difficulty which foreign consumers have experienced in liquidating their debts to India.

This brief introductory summary will serve to explain the general arrangement of the report which follows. The first three sections deal, as usual, with India's foreign trade, and the adjustment of the trade balance; the rise in the price of silver and the movements of exchange, and the sale of Council bills. The fourth section deals with the Government's financial operations and balances, and the effect of these operations on money market conditions in India is discussed in the next succeeding section. Then follow the usual sections dealing with the demand for the various forms of currency, the absorption of metallic currency and the expansion of the note circulation. Finally certain miscellaneous matters are dealt with in the last section.

I.—India's Foreign Trade.

Statistics of Foreign Trade.

2. The statement below gives in the form adopted in former reports, for the year 1917-18 and the preceding seven years, a summarised record of the statistics of India's foreign trade and of some other transactions which are usually taken into account in estimating the trade balance. In paragraphs 6 and 7 I refer to certain adjustments which are required in the statistics of imports and exports of gold and silver on account of the special nature of some of the transactions which are included in the trade figures. The adjusted figures for the year under report and each of the two preceding years are shown in italics in the statement below.

(d) Figures adjusted as explained in paragraphs 6 and 7 below.

3. I can only attempt a very brief summary of the principal features of the foreign trade with more particular reference to those affecting the currency and exchange problems of the year, leaving to the Review of Trade published by the Director of Statistics a detailed exposition of the trade statistics of the year. In the 12 months under report India exported goods to the value of over 2,42½ crores, of which all but slightly over 9 crores represented goods of Indian origin. In return India received about 1,50½ crores of goods from other countries, so that the excess of exports of private merchandise over imports of the same amounted to 92.14 crores. This excess, it will be observed, is smaller than that recorded in 1916-17, but is still very considerably larger than that recorded for the average of the five years 1910-11 to 1914-15. In normal times imports of gold and silver help substantially to fill the gap between exports and imports. Under war conditions, however, as was pointed out in the report for 1916-17, difficulties in obtaining gold and silver in quantities approximating to those imported in normal times have resulted in a greater strain being thrown on the alternative method of financing exports, namely, that whereby funds are placed at the disposal of trade by Government in the form of Councils. In the year which has just closed the imports of gold and silver, though appreciably greater than those of the two preceding years, were still far below the pre-war standard, while the amount of Council Bills paid in India exceeded even the high figure recorded in 1916-17 and amounted to no less than 50.72 lakhs. A comparatively insignificant import of Government securities, amounting to 83 lakhs, further helped to pay for the exports from India to other countries. As disclosed by the statement above the net apparent balance in favour of India was thus brought down to 19.96 lakhs. This apparent balance is further reduced to 17.67 lakhs by the adjustments, explained in paragraphs 6 and 7, which are necessary in the trade statistics of imports and exports of treasure. The fact that in a year in which the finance of exports has notoriously presented unusual difficulties and in which exchange has, save for a short-lived re-action in the autumn, always been difficult to procure, the net apparent balance as disclosed by the above statement should be smaller than the similar apparent balance in the three preceding years calls for a more detailed explanation which will be found in paragraph 12.

4. Of the exports valued at 2,42,56 lakhs, shipments of Indian merchandise Exports. were returned at 2,33½ crores. The largest individual group contributing towards this total was raw cotton and cotton manufactures, shipments of which were valued at just under 56 crores, raw cotton accounting for 42½ crores thereof. The next largest individual statistical group was grain, pulse and flour. Shipments of these foodstuffs amounted to over 4½ million tons valued at 53½ crores and were distributed between rice (20.80 lakhs), wheat (19 crores), barley, gram and pulse (11.19 lakhs). Raw jute and jute manufactures accounted for 49.29 lakhs, raw jute representing only about 6½ crores of this latter figure. Tea (17.07 lakhs), hides and skins, raw and tanned, (14.29 lakhs) and seeds (8.22 lakhs) were the remaining most important individual items. The total value of the exports of the year shows a decline of less than 2 per cent. as compared with that recorded in 1916-17, but in many of the important export staples there has been a substantial quantitative decline. Actually in the case of raw cotton and jute manufactures this decline is obscured by a rise in values. Shipments of raw jute and raw hides and skins, shrank both in value and quantity. On the other hand, larger quantities of tea, rice, gram, wheat, barley, maize and pulse were shipped than in 1916-17, these larger shipments being in the last four cases accompanied by higher values.

The effects of the smaller shipments of jute, of the high price of raw cotton, and of the large and practically continuous shipments throughout the year of foodstuffs were, as will be seen later, reflected in the demands for currency during the year.

5. Imports were returned at a slightly higher value than in 1916-17. Of Imports. the total value of 1,50.42 lakhs, over 42 per cent. namely 63.34 lakhs were imports of yarns and textile fabrics. Next in importance were imports of sugar (15.32 lakhs); metals and manufactures of metals (10.25 lakhs), machinery (5.23 lakhs), cutlery and hardware (4.81 lakhs), and chemicals (4.30 lakhs). The influence of advancing prices is probably more markedly reflected in the values recorded for imports than in export values and allowance will need to be made for this factor in estimating how far the values as recorded for certain imports should be taken into account in the adjustment of the trade balance of the year. Quantitatively there must have been a substantial decline in the volume of the import trade. The yardage of cotton piece-goods declined by 20 per cent. while the value increased by 9 per cent. Imports of metals shrank quantitatively by nearly 40 per cent. and in value by only 4 per cent.,

those of salt declined quantitatively by 24 per cent. and appreciated in value by 15 per cent. On the other hand, the fall in the recorded value of sugar imports does not represent the full quantitative decline of 6 per cent. We shall see, when we come to a discussion of the absorption of currency during the year, to what extent the advance in prices of imports has affected the usual reflow of the currency disbursed in the purchase of crops for export.

Imports and exports of treasure.

Gold.

6. The Reports of the last two years have included references to certain adjustments necessary in the figures for the net imports of treasure as disclosed by the statistical returns. For the year under report similar adjustments are also required. The statistical returns show the net imports of gold bullion at 13,52 lakhs but this figure includes certain import and export transactions on behalf of the Bank of England which do not enter into India's trade accounts. Imports of raw gold on behalf of the Bank of England were valued at 2,21 lakhs while exports from the Bank's holding of gold in India amounted to 3,73 lakhs. With these figures excluded the value of the net import of gold bullion into India is 15,04 lakhs, the aggregate net import of gold sovereigns and bullion being 21,46 lakhs.

Silver.

7. The table in the margin shows the monthly imports and exports on private account as furnished by the Statistical Department. There was an apparent net import of 69 lakhs; but the export figures include 77 lakhs worth of silver coin minted for the Egyptian Government at the Bombay Mint from silver imported by Government. This export should be omitted from the gross exports thereby reducing the latter to 92 lakhs and raising the net import to 1,46 lakhs. The true net import should thus be taken at 1,46 lakhs. Of the exports on private account 22 lakhs represent shipments of whole rupees to East Africa by a Bank on behalf of the Administration of that Colony; 40 lakhs in whole rupees or krans were shipped to Bahrein and Henjam chiefly for the pearl fisheries; 5 lakhs, mostly krans, were shipped to Persia. Exports on private account also included shipments amounting to 21 lakhs of silver coin minted for the Straits Administration and the Ceylon Government. The shipments of rupees from India made by the Government of India to Mesopotamia, amounting to 162 lakhs, are not included in the above figures.

8. In regard both to imports and exports of gold and silver, it should be noted that certain legislative measures were adopted during the year. Imports of gold except under license were prohibited by Notification No. 1469-F., issued on the 29th June 1917, while Ordinance No. III of 1917, the Gold (Import) Ordinance, gave powers for the acquisition of all gold imported into India on or after that date. The object of this Ordinance, which was re-enacted as the Gold (Import) Act, No. XXII of 1917, to remain in force during the war and for six months thereafter, was described in the terms of a Press Communiqué issued on the 29th June as "not in any way to interfere with trade remittances but to ensure that such gold as is imported is used in the most effective way possible to strengthen the Indian currency position. Gold so acquired will be placed in the Currency Reserve, where it will increase the metallic backing to the note issue and will, if it is in the form of sovereigns, be readily available for use as currency when necessary." The effect of this measure was to bring under the control of the Government of India the very considerable importations of gold which were being made from Japan and America, and to strengthen the gold reserves of the Government of India by the addition of 18,37 lakhs. The rate at which such imported gold was acquired was fixed by the Ordinance at Rs. 1 for every 7.58344 grains troy of fine gold, corresponding to a rate of Rs. 15 to the pound sterling. This rate continued till the 26th September when it was altered to 7.79321 grains of fine gold to the rupee, as a consequence of the advance to 1s. 5d. of the rate for the Secretary of State's immediate telegraphic transfers, the intention being, as stated in the Hon'ble Finance Member's speech at the Legislative Council meeting of the 25th September, that "neither premium nor discount shall attach to remittances of gold as compared with Council remittances at the present rates." On the re-enactment of the Gold (Import) Ordinance as the Gold (Import) Act, No. XXII of 1917, the opportunity was taken to provide that gold so acquired shall be paid for at rates prescribed by the Governor General in Council, this provision being necessary in view of the intention just referred to, and of the possible contingency of changes in the Council Bill rate. On the alteration from the 12th April 1915 of the latter rate to 1s. 6d. the rate for gold was lowered to 8.21830 grains per rupee. The gold acquired under the Act was paid for by notes issued from the Paper Currency Reserve against the metal there deposited. From the point of view of the trade balance these transactions operate in the same way as any other import into India, though, of course, the effect of the acquisition by Government was to postpone the passing of these imports into consumption as gold.

One incidental result of the acquisitions under this Act was to raise again the question of a Gold Mint for India. A large amount of the gold so acquired was not in the form of sovereigns, being foreign gold coin, gold bars, and bullion and therefore not available for use as currency. In view of the demand for currency in India an agreement was concluded with His Majesty's Government whereby a Branch of the Royal Mint is temporarily during the war to be established in Bombay for the purpose of converting this uncoined gold into currency so as to make it available for use in case of need. At the same time and with the same purpose it was decided to equip the Bombay Mint with a refining plant. Neither the Mint nor the Gold Refinery was actually opened for operations during the year, but within a few weeks of the close of the year, as a temporary expedient, owing to the delay in the shipment to India of the dies for the sovereign coinage and to meet an emergency caused by the enormous drain on the silver currency balances, the coinage of gold mohurs was commenced.

As regards silver, the import of silver bullion and coin, except under license, was prohibited by Notification No. 1571-F., issued on the 11th July 1917, while under an Ordinance, No. IV of 1917, issued on the same date power was taken to acquire silver imported under license. This Ordinance, unlike the Gold (Import) Ordinance, was not re-enacted and therefore lapsed six months after the date of its issue. As a matter of fact, no silver was acquired under its provisions.

The exportation of all silver coin and bullion was prohibited with effect from the 3rd September 1917.

9. Allowing for the adjustment on account of imports of railway plant and rolling stock, which for reasons given in paragraph 4 of Appendix I to Mr. Howard's report for 1913-14 should be excluded from the figures of private imports and correcting the figures of net imports of gold and silver as indicated in paragraphs 6 and 7 above, there was, according to the trade statistics, a trade balance in favour of India of 68.72 crores arrived at as follows :—

	Lakhs.
Net exports of merchandise	91.61
Net imports of treasure	22.92
Balance	68.72

This balance represents the value of exports which was not liquidated by the shipment of goods or treasure to India; and we have now to consider the various methods whereby foreign consumers of Indian exports were able to effect payment otherwise than by shipping to India goods or gold or silver. A small amount was paid for by the transfer to India of Government securities previously held outside India; on balance there were 83 lakhs of these securities so transferred to India.

10. By far the greater portion of the funds required to finance these exports was found through the release of rupees by Government. In normal times the provision of rupees by Government through Councils has the double effect of placing the Home Treasury of the Government of India in funds for its sterling disbursements, and simultaneously of releasing rupees to finance purchases for export. As was, however, pointed out in paragraph 44 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19, and as will be seen from Statement II appended to this Report, the requirements of the Home Treasury have in the year under review been more than amply covered by repayments made to the Secretary of State in London by His Majesty's Government on account of disbursements made in India on the latter's behalf by the Government of India. The sole object, therefore, with which Council bills were sold during the year under review was to enable the financing of the export trade to be effected. The total amount placed at the disposal of trade in this form was, as already observed, Rs. 50,72 lakhs.

The adjustment of the balance of trade.

Remittances through Government.

In addition to the above, remittances of funds to India were made through Government agency in various other ways. Remittances through the Post Office by means of postal and money orders, particularly from Egypt and the Straits, were abnormally heavy and resulted in a net payment in India of 9,58 lakhs. Telegraphic transfers drawn on Indian treasuries from Persia and Mesopotamia totalled 7,37 lakhs. Under special arrangements with the East African Administration, and the Governments of Ceylon and of the Seychelles, various sums, amounting in all to 5,85 lakhs, were paid out by the Indian Treasury to Banks or firms in India to provide funds for the payment of goods exported to these colonies from India, repayment being made in London. In order to provide American importers of Indian produce and manufactures with the rupees required by them to discharge their liabilities to exporters in India, rupee credits were opened in December 1917 in favour of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and payments against these credits by the close of the official year amounted to Rs. 3,80 lakhs. As part of an agreement between His Majesty's Government and the Government of Japan a sum of Rs. 3 crores was placed at the disposal of exporters to Japan against the release of gold held in India on behalf of the Bank of England, such gold being passed into the Paper Currency Reserve. This transaction was, of course, in effect equivalent to an import of gold into India, but inasmuch as the value of the gold thus made over to the Government of India is not included in the figures of imports of treasure, it is necessary to bring this transaction to account as a special item in the trade balance sheet of the year. Finally some considerable portion of the exports to Australia was financed with the rupees which were paid out by Government in discharge of bills drawn on them against stores of Australian produce purchased for the use of troops. These stores being on Government account do not appear in the trade statistics of imports but the exports shipped from India in exchange for these imports are included in the figures of exports. The rupees so paid out amounted to 1,43 lakhs.

The sum total then of the funds released in India by Government for trade purposes in the above ways was Rs. 81,75 lakhs. The release of Government funds in any of the methods thus described is in effect from the point of view of the balance of trade an importation of funds on private account, and operates to reduce the excess of exports over imports as disclosed by the trade statistics. Since these statistics, as shown above, disclose an excess of 68,72 lakhs, while the remittances of funds to India through Government have been found to be 81,75 lakhs, it would appear that these latter alone should have provided, and more than fully provided, the finance required for the payment of this excess of exports over imports.

Private remittances.

11. But, apart from the funds which Government may release in any of the methods just mentioned, account must also be taken of the rupee funds which are brought forward by private agency, for these serve precisely the same purpose, namely, that of adjusting the payment for that portion of India's exports not liquidated by imports of merchandise or treasure. These are rupees which private individuals, firms, railways, banks and others wish to transfer out of India otherwise than in payment of goods imported, or to be imported, into India. They may, for instance, represent the savings of the individual which the latter wishes to remit for investment in Home securities; the earnings or profits which a firm, or railway company, or bank is required to send to its Home office; or funds which it is believed could be more profitably employed out of India. In all cases, such remittances homewards operate to render possible export transactions in excess of those covered by imports. The amount of these remittances can necessarily never be precisely ascertained ; and, further, many of these items are not constant but vary considerably from year to year.

In 1917-18 the amount of these homeward remittances, was certainly considerably smaller than in the preceding year and probably also below the level of recent years. Among the factors accounting for this decrease, probably the most important single factor has been the appreciation in the price of silver. Through its effect on the exchange value of the rupee this appreciation has, on the one hand, led to the withholding of remittances in the expectation of a higher sterling equivalent being obtainable for rupees, while, on the other hand, it has added to the uncertainty which, since the imposition of a limit to the weekly allotment of Councils, has attended the re-importation of rupee funds transferred home. That there has been a withholding of remittance on the chance of in the expectation of realising higher rates is confirmed by the large and sudden demand for sterling when, as the result of a temporary relapse in October and November in the price of silver, an anticipation (incorrect as it eventually proved to be) arose of a reduction in the exchange value of the rupee. Generally speaking, the tendency on the part of commercial houses has been to retain their balances in this country, and this tendency has been encouraged by the fuller facilities now available in India, through Indian Treasury Bills, for the employment of temporarily idle money in gilt-edged and highly remunerative securities which can, when required, be immediately turned into liquid cash. I am informed that, in particular, Indian branches of Insurance companies whose remittances to London used to represent a not inconsiderable item, have in the last 18 months been retaining their receipts in India for investment in India, the change of policy being doubtless dictated by the uncertainty attending the return of funds, when required to meet any sudden claim. It is also the case that in the preceding two years there had been an export of capital from India mainly, no doubt, for investment in British War Loan securities, and the opportunities now available in India through the Indian War Loan of effecting a similarly patriotic investment on a rupee basis probably account for the decrease which Exchange Bankers have observed in the remittances in 1917-18 for investment in National War Bonds. Finally, there has been a diminution in the remittances representing the profits earned in India by companies with sterling capital. These have become fewer in number through the transfer in previous years to a rupee basis of a number of such companies, more particularly jute mill companies, and, where, as in the case of many of these sterling capital companies, the capital is either privately held or held by a few large individual holders with interests in other Indian commercial enterprises, the tendency here too has been to retain, for investment or re-employment in India, the profits which under normal conditions would have automatically been remitted home. An exception to this tendency is, of course, to be found in the case of the railway companies, whose surplus profits remitted home were probably larger than usual owing to the increased traffic offering and the general enhancement of rates. These remittances are usually estimated at between £1 and £1½ millions annually ; but this figure was probably exceeded in 1917-18, for the actual surplus profits paid over in India in 1917-18 to Railways worked by companies exceeded the average of the past two years by 43 per cent.

The above general conclusion is supported by certain data which are available regarding the operations of certain Exchange Banks. Homeward remittances of the description referred to above are, as a general rule, made through an Exchange Bank, in whose operations they represent a sale of sterling. In 1917-18 the sales of sterling of the six British Exchange Banks fell short of their purchases of sterling by nearly £32 million. A very substantial portion of this deficiency was, of course, covered by the Councils allotted to these Banks, but, in the result, these Banks found themselves at the close of the year with an uncovered or over-bought position of between £8 and £9 millions. The corresponding figure at the close of 1916-17 was slightly under £2½ millions. These figures, it is true, refer only to the operations of the six British Exchange Banks, who, as part of an arrangement concluded with the Secretary of State, furnish certain periodical returns on which the above figures are based, and, further, these returns include the operations of these Banks' agencies in Ceylon. Subject, however, to these qualifications, the fact that so large an over-bought position had necessarily to be accumulated by the Exchange Banks for the purpose of financing exports lends support to the view expressed in the preceding paragraph, that the total amount of private remittance was substantially smaller in 1917-18 than in the preceding year.

General conclusions.

12. I have shown that the amount of rupee funds placed by Government at the disposal of trade more than covered the balance in favour of India as disclosed by trade statistics, and the amount by which the Banks were over-bought must be added to this figure, since this over-buying arose, as is known, entirely as a result of the undertaking given by the Exchange Banks to assist to the fullest possible extent in the financing of war exports. After allowing for the fact that a portion of the Banks' overbuying was at the rate of 1s. 5d. and making a rough estimate of the overbuying by the Banks' Colombo Agencies we get a figure of rather more than 90 crores as representing the total amount of the rupee funds which can quite correctly be said to have been brought forward by Government and the Banks to finance the excess of exports over imports. This result does not accord with the figures given in paragraph 9 as the amount of such excess. It is not easy to particularise the causes for this discordance, and I can only very briefly point to the following factors as likely to account, to some extent, for the different results arrived at between the trade statistics on the one hand and such other data as are available on the other.

In the first place, it is very probable that a considerable portion of the imports of gold was made in anticipation of exports to be shipped from India, and that the funds so laid down were not fully utilised in 1917-18. Although the trade accounts classify such imports of gold as belonging to the year in which the import has taken place it does not necessarily follow that such imports were intended to correct an adverse balance for the year in question. I imagine that this factor was particularly operative in the case of the imports of gold by Japan, for there has been a considerable holding of Treasury Bills by or on behalf of Japanese exporters, some portion of which, I am informed, represents the funds released in India by the transfer to the Indian Government of the 3 crores of gold referred to in paragraph 10. Another disturbing factor is to be found in the basis on which prices are determined for the purpose of valuing imports for statistical purposes. As was pointed out in Appendix II to Mr. Howard's Currency Report for 1913-14, there is always the possibility that the value of imports into India and of exports from India will not correspond to the value which merchants have to pay or for which they have to draw and the discordance will, of course, be accentuated when, as under present conditions, prices are advancing rapidly and continuously. In the case of the imports of piece-goods in 1917-18, this factor probably had a peculiarly disturbing effect. A leading Calcutta firm who import piece-goods have been good enough to furnish me with the value of the remittances made by them in payment of their imports of piece-goods. Over the whole of their transactions for the period August 1917 to April 1918 this firm remitted home, as the cost of their imports of piece-goods, 13 per cent. less than the price on which import duty was assessed, this latter price, which represents the market price at time of importation, being the value at which this firm's imports would be shown in the trade accounts. A similar factor, but operating in the opposite direction, may perhaps also have been at work in the case of certain exports but its effect on the values which should be taken for exports will probably not have been as great as the effect on import values of a rise in the price of piece-goods. The latter represent, as has been shown above, 42 per cent. of the total value of imports and the sterling cost of these particular imports is an important item in the debit account of India. It must also be noted that the trade statistics do not include all exports shipped in chartered vessels and it is possible that a certain quantity of exports so shipped which should strictly speaking have been brought to account as exports of private merchandise may have escaped registration.

The above examination points to the conclusion that, as in the two immediately preceding years, the transactions of 1917-18 have resulted in India's credits exceeding her debits. Though the flow of capital from private individuals and commercial houses observed in the last two years may have been reduced, there has been an appreciable amount of Indian banking resources transferred to London. This transfer of their resources by the Exchange Banks is, however, being partially liquidated in the year 1918-19 under a special arrangement with the Secretary of State, the effect of which will be to increase the amount of funds which the Government of India will have accumulated at Home. As is explained elsewhere the funds already accumulated have enabled the creation of a special Reserve of £20 millions for the purposes stated in paragraph 34 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19 and it may perhaps not be out of place to note here that the holdings of the Government of India in Treasury Bills, National War Bonds and Exchequer Bonds in the Paper Currency and Special Reserves amounted on the 31st March 1918 to over £52 millions, representing, as was described in paragraph 53 of the Finance Member's speech, an 'over-bought' position' caused mainly by reason of the expenditure incurred in India on behalf of His Majesty's Government, but also as a result of the rupee funds placed at the disposal of the trade. These sums are in effect loaned to His Majesty's Government and are, of course, in addition to India's contribution of £100 millions to the war.

quotations in London of silver in each month of the year. There have been sensational fluctuations in the price of the white metal, and the highest point reached, namely, 55d. on the 21st September, constitutes a record since 1878. The cumulative effect of the contraction in supplies and of the continued expansion in the demand for coinage and in the requirements of the trade will account for the increasing appreciation in the value of the metal, but it is a little difficult to explain satisfactorily, except on the ground of sentiment or speculation, the spectacular rise and fall which took place between the 23rd August and the 11th October, when an advance of 10½d. in 25 days was followed by a fall of 10½d. in 14 days. It is noteworthy that during the period of the sensational advance the Indian currency silver balances which had been progressively increasing since the 7th June stood at over 29 crores, while the Indian currency gold holding had simultaneously been augmented.

On the 2nd April silver stood at 36½d. In that month the United States commenced to buy for coinage, and this somewhat unusual factor doubtless influenced the rise recorded in that month and the following two months during which period, too, there was a substantial demand for coinage from France. In the third week of July, however, there was a certain reaction, caused probably by the prohibition applied with effect from the 11th July on the importation of silver into India. From 39½d. on the 27th July the price advanced rapidly and continued to advance throughout August and in the first three weeks of September, the highest point being reached, as stated above, on the 21st of that month when silver was quoted at 55d. remaining at that level until the 25th. Thereafter prices began to fall away. The demand from China suddenly ceased. Rumours were persistent of a possible release of a portion of the large reserves of silver held by the United States Government. Other factors set in simultaneously or shortly after to accentuate the downward tendency. Sales of Mexican dollars to the United States were reported on a large scale and the calling in by the Government of the State of Panama of its currency and the demonetisation of the Italian silver coinage, together with the prohibition on the export of silver to Scandinavia and Holland, no doubt contributed towards the fall. October accordingly saw silver down to 41½d., though this fall was counteracted by a rise of $3\frac{1}{2}d.$ to $45\frac{1}{2}d.$, on the last day of the month. The fluctuations in the remaining months of the year were not so marked, and the lowest point touched between December and March was $42\frac{1}{2}d.$ No doubt in this latter period the knowledge that negotiations had been opened between the United States Government and the British Government for the release of the former's silver reserves served to maintain the downward tendency until information transpired of the probable stabilisation of American prices at the rate of a dollar per ounce.

The high level to which the price of silver had risen, and at which it seemed likely to be maintained, led to the taking of certain consequential measures. On the 11th July the importation of silver into India was prohibited except under license, this step being taken to eliminate competition with Government purchases. On the 29th August silver having by that date reached a point at which the Secretary of State was faced with a loss in selling rupees at $1s. 4\frac{1}{2}d.$, the rate for the latter was advanced to $1s. 5d.$ On the 3rd September an embargo was laid on the exports of silver bullion and coin from India. As was explained in paragraph 48 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19 these last two measures in a sense supplement each other in their effect on checking the withdrawal of rupees from circulation for export, the former by making such transactions unprofitable, the latter by rendering them illegal. Similar preventive action had already been, or was shortly after, taken by other countries, the export of silver having been prohibited from Hongkong, Japan and the Straits, while it was also at one time contemplated by China. In the Straits Settlements, indeed, where the almost total disappearance of small coin compelled the issue of paper currency of as low a denomination as 10 cents ($2\frac{1}{2}d.$), this prohibitive action has been supplemented by a re-coining of the currency of the Colony, the fineness of the dollar and of the subsidiary silver coin being reduced in the first case from 900 to 800 and in the latter from 600 to 400.

Imports into and exports from India having been prohibited, the Indian bullion market thereby became a watertight compartment, and prices in India of silver followed a course which naturally did not necessarily reflect, as in the past, the tendencies of the market outside India. The highest point touched during the year for bar silver in Bombay was on the 19th March, 1918 when silver was quoted ex duty at $R103\frac{1}{2}$, and the lowest on the 10th April 1917 when the price fell to $R86\frac{1}{2}$.

The rupee coinage of the year was 23,12 lakhs, and purchases of silver for this coinage amounted to $83\frac{1}{2}$ million standard ounces. These were supplemented by local purchases in Bombay and Calcutta of $3\frac{1}{2}$ million standard ounces. There were purchased in America 40 million, in China $28\frac{1}{2}$ million, and in Australia 5 million ounces, while $1\frac{1}{2}$ million ounces were obtained from the Bawdwin Mines. The balance was shipped from London.

It is noteworthy that in spite of the rise in the price of silver exports from the silver using countries have scarcely been affected. In India, as in China, the demand for the raw materials and the produce of these two countries has throughout been so insistent and of such a character that foreign consumers have been ready to pay the higher prices asked for by Eastern producers. The past year's experience has indeed been that the rise in the exchange value of the currency of these countries, though theoretically it should have tended to curtail exports therefrom, has had less effect in this direction than other factors, such as the shortage of tonnage. It would appear that present conditions have placed Eastern producers in a monopolistic position in which they have been enabled to insist on receiving full prices from foreign consumers and that so far from the higher exchange exercising its usual inhibiting effect on exports it has actually resulted in Eastern producers obtaining a larger sterling return for an equal and probably for even a smaller quantity of produce.

III.—Exchange and Councils.

14. As has already been observed except for a few weeks in the autumn there was a continuous and strong demand for rupee exchange. Under normal conditions variations in this demand at different periods of a year are reflected in larger or smaller sales of Councils as also in fluctuations of course between the specie points, in the value of the rupee. But, with the impossibility of selling unlimited Councils, for the reasons given in last year's Report, and with the fixation of rates of exchange, which necessarily followed on such a limitation on the importation of funds, the monthly figures of the sales of Councils do not now possess their former significance. The allotment of Councils was, however, varied to some extent in accordance with trade demand. The figures inset show the monthly drawings and payments during the year. In the first four months of the year the weekly allotment was maintained at 1,20 lakhs. This period was marked by heavy shipments of Indian produce, particularly of wheat, while, on the other hand, the demand for exchange was accentuated by a considerable falling off in imports. From August to December however exports showed a tendency to decline, imports in the same period, however, exhibiting a revival. In this period accordingly the weekly allotment was reduced to 90 lakhs on the 1st August, to 60 lakhs on the 21st November and again on the 12th December to 40 lakhs. On the 16th January it was raised to 60 lakhs; and a month later, namely, on the 15th February, a special weekly allotment of 40 lakhs was added and earmarked for the financing of exports of rice from Burma and tea from Colombo. At this figure of 100 lakhs the weekly allotment continued till the close of the year.

Two specific items, which are included in the figures of drawings and payments marginally quoted but were additional to the weekly allotments just described need special mention. Between May and July to facilitate the execution of the Royal Wheat Commission's very pressing requirements for wheat, a sum of Rs. 2.03 lakhs was paid out in varying weekly amounts in sovereigns to certain of the Commission's purchasing agents against payments by the latter in London. The sovereigns paid out were released from the Paper Currency Reserve, and their sterling equivalent was invested in, and added to the Reserve's holding of British Treasury Bills. In effect then the transaction was precisely the same as any other Council drawing through the Paper Currency Reserve and has been treated as such in the statistics of Council drawings and payments. The second special item is the weekly allotment of 3½ lakhs made to the Imperial Bank of Persia to enable it to finance in Persia expenditure required in Imperial interests.

15. As regards rates the year opened with immediate Councils fixed at 1s. 4½d. per rupee, while under agreement with the Secretary of State the Exchange Banks undertook to work on rates based on a selling rate for immediate transfers of 1s. 4¾d. These rates remained in force until the 29th August 1917 when for the reasons given in paragraph 13 the rate for immediate Councils was raised to 1s. 5d. In explanation of the policy dictating the higher rate an announcement was made on the 19th September to the effect that the prices at which Council Bills would be sold would be "those at which silver could be bought by the Secretary of State. It is not to be expected that he should sell rupees at a rate appreciably lower than that at which he can actually buy them but he intends that considerable latitude shall be employed in the application of this principle so that as far as possible changes may be avoided."

The rates fixed on the 29th August 1917 continued in force until the close of the year. The further advance to 1s. 6d. made on the 11th April 1918, as also the causes accounting therefor, namely the conclusion of an agreement with the United States Government for the release to India of a portion of the dollars in their Currency Reserve, belong to the history of the events of 1918-19.

As was pointed out in paragraph 53 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19 the efforts of the Government of India to maintain stability in rates met with a full measure of assistance and loyal support from the Exchange Banks and merchants, and thanks to their co-operation the finance required for the very large volume of exports included in the lists, drawn up in consultation with the Home Government, of articles defined as being of national importance was secured, though at times no doubt with some difficulty. As I have pointed out in an earlier paragraph, the amount of remittance available during the year to supplement the rupee funds provided by Government and by the Exchange Banks from their local resources was considerably smaller than in the preceding year. It is probable, and in fact there is definite evidence in certain cases to this effect, that there has been a certain amount of leakage of cover through hole and corner transactions on the part of certain classes of merchants, who have at times been tempted by the high rates offered by exporters of articles not on the list of exports of national importance, to part with their home remittances, and certain preventive measures have been forced on Government, as for instance, the prohibition applied, with effect from the 16th March 1918 on the export of pearls and from the 11th May and the 1st June 1918 respectively on the import and export of rouble notes. It is difficult to arrive at anything but a rough estimate of the value of exports of national importance. These were estimated by the Department of Statistics at about 100½ crores. The exchange required for these exports was of course primarily provided through Council Bills and, as we have seen, through the transfer to London of a portion of the rupee resources of the Exchange Banks.

IV.—The Government Balances and Reserves. Ways and Means.

16. The usual details regarding the Treasury Balances, the Gold Standard and the Paper Currency Reserves will be found in Statements Nos. I and II appended to the Report. A summary of these details is given in the following table which sets out the amounts and the distribution of these balances at the commencement and the close of the year and also at the end of September 1917.

Treasury Balances.
(a) in India.

17. The above figures give a general indication of the effect on the resources of the Government of the ways and means operations of the year. Treasury balances in India at the beginning of the year included £4.01 millions of the Indian War Loan and were well above the normal. As subscriptions to the Indian War Loan came in during the first quarter of the year, Treasury balances in India continued to increase and were at their highest at the end of June, when they stood at £26,380,000. Thereafter on the closure of the Loan Lists and with the advent of the lean months of revenue collections, they fell away gradually to £12,387,000 at the end of October, and, though the sales of Treasury Bills which commenced on the 16th October brought welcome and substantial additions to the Treasury, balances dropped still further till they reached their lowest point (£11,012,000) at the end of November.

From January onwards however, with the ingathering of the Land Revenue, and the large sales of 3 months' Treasuries, which were introduced on the 14th January and found immediate and extensive support, balances rose slowly again and closed on the 31st March at £15,325,000.

18. Before passing to a corresponding account of the Treasury balances in England, I may perhaps conveniently deal briefly with the main features of the ways and means operations in India. As was observed in paragraph 3 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19, these operations presented practically continuous difficulties throughout the year. Two causes were mainly responsible therefor. In the first place, the Indian balances were called upon to supply funds, on an ever increasing scale, mainly to meet disbursements on behalf of His Majesty's Government. In the second place, counter remittances of silver purchased by the Secretary of State (which represent one method of replenishing Indian balances), substantial though they were, did not suffice to fill the void.

The following very brief summary gives the principal features of the Indian transactions of the year. Outgoings amounted to 1,99 crores accounted for mainly as follows :—

	In crores.
(a) Army, Military Works and Marine Issues	1,22.1
(b) Post office issues	12.5
(c) Council Bill payments	50.7
(d) Payments on behalf of certain Colonial Governments	6.6
(e) Payments on behalf of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York	3.8
TOTAL	1,95.7

and the finance for these transactions was provided for in the following ways :—

	In crores.
(1) From excess of Civil Revenue over Civil expenditure	44.4
(2) From excess of railway receipts over railway issues	26.8
(3) By borrowings—
(a) Indian War Loan and Cash Certificates	45.7
(b) Treasury Bills	48.5
(c) Other borrowings	4.0
(4) By remittances to India of silver purchased by the Secretary of State	18.0
(5) By transfer of Home Treasury balances through investment of the Paper Currency Reserve	13.0
(6) By transfer through the Gold Standard Reserve	2.0

19. The transactions in England will, of course, be largely a counterpart of the Indian transactions. Beginning with a balance of £5,391,000 as against a normal balance of £4 millions, the Home Treasury balances gradually grew, as a result of the accretions arising from the sales of Council bills, and of repayments by His Majesty's Government, and were actually in November and December in excess of Indian balances. The close of the year found the Home Treasury with a balance of £10,625,000, a special Reserve of £20 millions invested in Treasury Bills and National War Bonds having been formed, as explained in paragraph 34 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19.

In Statement II will be found a summary of the cash transactions of the Secretary of State under the more important heads. The net sterling charges against revenue amounted to slightly over £24 millions, while capital transactions resulted in the discharge of debt amounting to £1,582,663. The purchase of silver resulted in disbursements of £13½ millions and India's financial contribution representing the proceeds of the first Indian War Loan in the payment to His Majesty's Treasury of £35,073,000. To finance these transactions the Home Treasury received in Councils £34,880,682, in sterling equivalents of postal money order transactions paid out in India £6,335,259 and on account of disbursements in connection with the war made in India just under £62 millions while other miscellaneous transactions including recoveries from Colonial Governments in sterling of sums disbursed in rupees in India yielded about £8 millions.

The Paper Currency
Reserve.

20. The silver balance in the Paper Currency Reserve fluctuated considerably during the year. On the 1st April it stood at £12,806,000 and rose by the end of the half-year to £19,713,000. In the second half year owing to the heavy absorption to which reference is made in a subsequent paragraph, the balance fell to £7,194,000. The gold balance in India however, as a result of the acquisitions under the Gold (Import) Ordinance and Gold (Import) Act referred to in paragraph 8 above and of the transfer to India of £4 millions of the gold held in London increased from £7,999,000 to £17,900,000. A large increase occurred in the holdings of securities which rose from £32,328,000 to £40,986,000. The increase represents investments authorised by Ordinance No. II of 1917 which was subsequently re-enacted as Act XIX of 1917. The powers taken under that Ordinance were utilised for the purpose of financing Councils which were paid through this source in the months of April, May and June.

The Gold Standard
Reserve.

21. The fluctuations in the Gold Standard Reserve have resulted in an increase in the holding of securities from £25,406,000 to £28,458,000. A great part of this increase is due to the accumulation of interest on securities held in this Reserve, for as a consequence of the advance in the price of silver this Reserve did not derive any large accretion through the coinage of rupees in the second half of the year. Actually the amount transferred to this Reserve as such profit amounted to £1,117,000. Details of the balance in this Reserve and of the securities held therein will be found in Statement XXIII.

V.—The Presidency Banks and Money conditions in India.

22. Conditions in the money market during the year under report exhibited many novel features which it is necessary to describe in some detail. I have already referred to the continued heavy expenditure by Government on services and purchases of all kinds connected with the war and to the demand for the finance of exports of national importance. To meet disbursements from Treasury balances the Government was practically continuously throughout the twelve months in the market as borrower. In the opening months of the year the proceeds of the War Loan amounting to Rs. 45 crores were available for these purposes: in October on the exhaustion of those funds the Government came out as borrowers for six, nine and twelve months' money and a few weeks later in January for three months' money. In all including the sales of Cash Certificates and a loan of 4 crores from the Bank of Bombay the borrowings of Government in India throughout the year amounted to Rs. 93 crores. The significance of this latter figure will be appreciated if it is contrasted with the total Rupee debt of the Government of India which stood on the 31st March 1914 at Rs. 146½ crores.

Yet, notwithstanding these large borrowings by the State, and despite an active internal demand for money (as illustrated by the Clearing house figures and the figures of movements of funds through currency transfers) there was at no time any recurrence of that acute stringency which has been an almost regular feature of Indian money conditions at certain periods of an active trade year. On the contrary there were surprisingly few fluctuations in the discount rates of the three Presidency Banks, and such fluctuations as did occur were within very small margins. The Bank rates at Calcutta and Bombay were only twice altered in the twelve months and at no time exceeded six per cent. I can here only indicate very briefly some of the main causes to which perhaps are to be attributed these new features in Indian money conditions. As was explained in paragraph 26 of the Finance Member's speech introducing the Financial Statement for 1918-19 the policy of Government has throughout been to protect the market against any stringency by leaving with the Presidency Banks as long as possible the proceeds of its borrowings so that these could be made available to trade and commerce until they were actually required for Government disbursements. There was thus generally speaking no considerable withdrawal from the money market of funds to be locked up in the Reserve Treasuries; and, on the other hand, the character of much of the Government's war expenditure was such that sums disbursed by it when it was necessary to draw for this purpose on the Government balances with the Presidency Banks, rapidly returned to the market. Further, while the market was thus protected against stringency, the sale of Treasury Bills of varying short maturities tended, through the opportunity thus offered for the employment of sums temporarily not required for trade purposes, to prevent any temporary re-action in an opposite direction. Finally, the exigencies of war finance have brought about the existence of the closest and most cordial relations between the Government and the Presidency Banks; and the resulting co-operation has, as would be expected, been reflected in more stabilised conditions in the money market.

23. The following table gives the usual statistics of the Government balances at each of the three Presidency Banks on the last day of each month of the last two years, and I have added to this statement a column to show the statistics of the balances in Reserve Treasuries on the same dates:—

Conditions in 1917-18 were so entirely different from those prevailing in the preceding year that no useful purpose would be served by elaborating the contrast, and I pass to a brief sketch of the principal factors affecting the figures for 1917-18. The high Government balances at the Banks' Head offices in the first four months of this latter year resulted from the operations of the War Loan. In pursuance of the policy referred to above, these were maintained at as high a figure as possible until the end of June, when the close of the busy season permitted their transfer to the Reserve Treasuries. Similarly, when in the autumn the trade demand resumed its activity, the Government balances at Head offices were allowed to accumulate again through the proceeds of sales of Treasury Bills. The figures for the Government balances at Branches of the Presidency Banks do not, of course, possess the same significance, since the Government balances retained thereat are ordinarily restricted to the sums required for the transactions of the treasuries which the Presidency Banks manage on behalf of Government. That these should have stood at a higher figure than usual is to be explained partly by the fact that they were swollen in the first six months of the year by the proceeds of the War Loan and partly by the necessity of strengthening them to meet the larger disbursements entailed by the war. This latter factor has also been operative at Government treasuries many of which have needed to strengthen their balances to meet possible demands on them for military payments. It has, in fact, been found that the standard balances adopted to meet peace requirements are generally inadequate to meet the additional demands caused by the war.

Cash balances of Presidency Banks.

The variations in the cash balances of the Presidency Banks have been so marked as to call for some detailed comment. On the 1st April 1917 the aggregate cash balances were 21,78 lakhs; and they fell by the end of that month to 20,94 lakhs, mainly through the withdrawal of over 2 crores from the Bank of Bombay in connection with the Broach settlement. From May until October, however, there was a continuous growth in the cash balances of the three Presidency Banks and these were at their highest in the first week of November when they totalled no less than 48½ crores. The percentage figures of cash to liabilities in this period were strikingly high. In the last week of September the Bank of Bengal returned a percentage of 50; the Bank of Bombay 71; the Bank of Madras 48. An important factor in the increase in the cash balances of the Presidency Banks was the accretion to the resources of the Exchange Banks. Various causes, some common to all Banks, others more peculiar to the Exchange Banks, account for the addition to the large balances of these Banks. The substantial profits which have been made by most Indian industries in the opportunities created by the war have naturally been reflected in the increased local deposits of the Exchange Banks as in the deposits of other Banks: but the most important immediate factor in the increase to the resources of the Exchange Banks is to be sought in the large imports of gold between the months of July and November. I have already referred to these imports and I need only here describe in very general terms the effect of these imports on the banking resources of the year. Gold so imported passed, as already explained, into the possession of Government who acquired it by the release from the Paper Currency of the value of such imports in notes, these latter being paid into the Presidency Banks, who were charged with the payment to the importer of the value of the gold acquired. In a very large number of cases the sums so placed to the importer's credit at the Presidency Bank were not immediately employed, being in fact funds laid down in anticipation of requirements in the export season. The accumulation of cash with the Presidency Banks in this way during the months July to October accounts for part, at any rate, of the large and rapid increase in the Presidency Banks' cash reserves to which I have referred, while the large and rapid decrease of the latter in the second half of the year is to be explained by the withdrawals of these accumulations.

Bank rate.

25. The year opened with a bank rate of 6 per cent. in Calcutta and Bombay; and of 8 per cent. in Madras. The conditions in Bombay in the first month of the year were such as always accompany the financing of the cotton crop and the Broach settlement, though a special additional factor was the withdrawal of money for investment in War Loan. With its large Government balance, however, the Bank of Bombay was able to render substantial help and soon after the Broach settlement conditions became markedly easier. In Calcutta the demand for accommodation for the jute crop was far below normal. A low price, combined with ample funds of their own, enabled the jute mills to reduce their demand on the Bank of Bengal; and on the 6th September the Bank of Bengal's rate was reduced to 5 per cent., the Bank of Bombay having already brought down its rate on the 23rd August to the same figure. Meanwhile, the Bank of Madras had already reduced its rate to 7 per cent., and on the 3rd September further lowered it to 6 per cent. No change occurred in these rates until the first week of December when the Bank of Bombay's rate was raised to 6 per cent; the Bank of Bengal followed suit on the 3rd January; while shortly after the Bank of Madras raised its rate to 7. At these levels the bank rates remained for the remaining months of the year, a steady demand being observable in Calcutta while at Bombay with the approach of the Broach settlement in April 1918, and record and advancing prices being almost daily registered for cotton, the withdrawals from the Bank of Bombay were continuous and at times considerable. In December the Bank's cash balances fell by 6.85 lakhs, in January by 2.25 lakhs, in February by 1.20 lakhs, and in March by 3.90 lakhs.

26. The contrast between the conditions of the year under report and those of its predecessor is strikingly illustrated by the following table which shows for each of the two years the maximum and the minimum rates of each of the three Presidency Banks and the number of changes in the rate:—

Presidency Bank.	Maximum.		Minimum.		Number of changes in the bank rate.

27. The movements of funds through Currency will appear from the following statement which shows the issue of Currency Transfers for each month of the year in each circle. As usual, supplies of money for up-country purposes were drawn chiefly from Bombay, the transactions in Calcutta showing a small decline. The Karachi circle shows a further advance. Both Bombay and Karachi were heavily drawn on from Northern India during the wheat export months.

(b) Through Treasury and Currency.

As will be seen from Statements IV and V the total movement of funds through Government agency, i.e., through Treasuries as well as through Currency amounted to close on 65 crores. Statement IV shows the movement between Provinces: this amounted to 39.20 crores. The transactions within the Provinces are shown in Statement V and amounted to 25.27 crores.

Clearing House Figures.

28. I have referred above to the record of Clearing House figures as indicative of trade and business activity. The following statement gives for the last four official years the usual record for each centre of the value of the transactions through the Clearing House:—

(In lakhs of rupees.)

Year.	Calcutta.	Bombay.	Madras.	Karachi.	Rangoon.	Total.
1914-15	2,66.95	1,57.88	18.81	11.62	43.12	4,98.38
1915-16	3,52.36	1,77.18	20.21	14.09	39.50	6,08.34
1916-17	4,82.89	2,02.28	25.29	17.38	50.68	8,48.50
1917-18	5,24.90	3,88.53	23.01	22.17	52.86	10,06.47

The figures for the year 1917-18 show a further advance on those of the previous year which themselves constituted a record, the most noticeable increase being observable in Bombay where the transactions through the Clearing House for the first time exceeded 300 crores. Calcutta still maintains its premier position. In contrasting the figures for 1917-18 with those of previous years, it must be remembered that the former include transactions in connection with the War Loan, payments to which by cheque amounted to 24.21 lakhs.

notes. The usual statistical details regarding the note circulation are given in a subsequent section; but the monthly figures are here given, concurrently with those relating to the absorption and return of rupees to illustrate the extent to which seasonal demands cause an interchange between these two circulating media. In June, July and August there was the usual re-flow of metallic currency, though on a somewhat smaller scale than might have been expected from the enormous disbursement of rupees in the previous 15 months. Excluding these three months the remaining nine months show an average monthly absorption of 4 crores a month. The large absorption in the first month of the year is, of course, due to the requirements for cotton in Bombay and the beginnings of the demand for wheat in Northern India. With the issue of gold and the cessation of the cotton demand in Bombay, the absorption of silver in May fell to Rs. 2,27 lakhs. The demand for rupees between July and October is largely determined by the requirements for jute. These were on a smaller scale than usual and absorbed only Rs. 1½ crores as against Rs. 11½ crores in the previous year. The limitation of exports of jute, the consequent fall in prices, the larger stocks held by the mills placed purchasers of this staple at an advantage in their dealings with sellers. Purchases were spread over a longer period, were paid for at rates which purchasers could largely dictate, and the currency required was also largely determined by the seller's need to find a market. It is of interest to note in this connection that through the co-operation of the large purchasing firms an increased use of paper currency was possible in the purchase of jute, the 5-rupee note being utilised to a larger extent than in previous years. In the autumn the demand for metallic currency did not set in as early as usual and it was not until November that any serious inroads were made on the silver balances. From that month onwards the high prices of cotton and an increasing demand for food-stuffs grown in Northern India combined to cause a very serious withdrawal of rupees, and in the two closing months of the calendar year Rs. 13 crores were absorbed. There was some slight reaction in January, February and March, the total absorption in these three months amounting to Rs. 12½ crores, cotton again, and to some extent rice in Burma, being the chief causes thereof.

Taking the absorption by circles, the heaviest absorption was in the Bombay and Karachi circles where 13,13 lakhs were absorbed, the Lahore circle following with an absorption of 11,96 lakhs. Since August 1914 the Bombay circle has taken Rs. 26½ crores in silver, the Lahore circle 25½ crores, while the Calcutta circle shows a net return in the same period of 4 crores. The extent to which metallic currency has been poured into Northern India can be measured by the absorption of Rs. 41,88 crores of silver and gold issued in the Punjab and the United Provinces in the last three years. Purchases of wheat, gram, barley, and other food-stuffs, payments to the troops and to the frontier militia, all of which must necessarily be made in metal, account for this large absorption. On the other hand, as regards the absorption in Bombay, this circle, it must be remembered, includes the chief Indian bullion market, and the reduction in imports of gold and silver and, still more recently, the prohibition on the imports of precious metals have naturally created a tendency for that circle to absorb a larger share than other circles of the metallic issues from Currency and to attract the silver and gold issued in other parts of India.

32. The rupee coinage of the year amounted to 23,12 lakhs, while the net reduction in the rupee balances in treasuries and in Currency was 6,36 lakhs.

Deducting the rupees shown in the trade accounts as having been exported by sea from India, the actual number of rupees added in the year to the circulation in the hands of the public was thus 27,96 lakhs. Compared with 1916-17, when the absorption was 33,81 lakhs, the absorption in 1917-18 was on a somewhat smaller scale. It will be of interest to note here that between the 1st August 1914 and 31st March 1918 the number of rupees passed into circulation was 78,93 lakhs, representing just over 270 million ounces of fine silver. The total world production in the four years 1914 to 1917 has been estimated at 650 million ounces, so that Indian coin requirements in the 44 months in question alone represent more than 41 per cent of the estimated world production in those four years. To the coin requirements must be added the net imports of silver on private account which in the same period have amounted to 128 million ounces, bringing the total quantity of silver absorbed in India between the dates mentioned to 398 million ounces.

This last factor, namely, the requirement of silver for industries and arts, must, I think, have played some part in determining the demand for coined silver, for it will be observed from the statement in paragraph 2 that the imports of silver for purposes other than coinage have, as a result of conditions created by the war, been on a diminishing scale, and it is probably the case that, in order to fill the void thus created in the supplies of silver available for such purposes as ornaments, some portion of the silver metallic currency in the hands of the public has been, and is still being, diverted to this purpose. There is, as a matter of fact, evidence from other sources that silver rupees have been melted down into bars for use in the arts. But though these requirements may to some extent explain the ultimate destination of some portion of the silver coin in circulation, the main causes accounting for the demand for metallic currency are of course quite different.

The flow of metallic money from the ports and commercial centres to the country side is, as is generally known, determined by the seasonal and crop conditions. These have in the last two years been exceptionally favourable. Prices of Indian produce have also been protected by the absence of competition from other parts of the world, and in regard to a very large proportion of Indian produce the requirements of foreign countries have been of such an urgent character as to make the question of cost subordinate. The volume of metallic currency required to induce the Indian producer to part with his produce has therefore in the last two years been necessarily great. In normal times metallic currency thus released in the purchase of Indian produce returns to the commercial centres and the ports in payment of manufactured goods required by the producer. But, as has been observed in previous reports, imports of foreign manufactures have shrunk considerably, while the rise in the price of raw materials, higher freights, and increased costs of production have combined to bring about a very much higher range of prices, which the Indian consumer has not been able or has been unwilling to pay. Further, the congestion of traffic on railways has also affected the despatch of imported goods from the ports to the inland central marts, and their ultimate distribution from these marts among the countryside. The natural solvent then which serves in normal times to create a re-flow of metallic currency to the ports and commercial centres has only been partially operative. It must also be remembered that over a large part of the country, and certainly by the bulk of the agricultural population, the rupee is still regarded primarily as a store of value; and where such is the principal function of a metallic currency, any appreciation in the value of the metal must necessarily tend to accentuate the withdrawal from circulation of a considerable portion of the currency. The agriculturist's insistence on being paid in metal for the product of his labours is not entirely unreasonable. These payments represent his capital and wealth, and when stored in the form of metal, such capital is protected against deterioration from climatic and other causes. This factor is often overlooked when it is sought to make a contrast between India and other Eastern countries where paper currency has replaced metallic currency as, for instance, in the Straits and latterly to some extent in Ceylon. The requirements of metallic currency in these countries are limited to the amounts necessary for the payment of wages to labour, mostly not indigenous labour, whose savings are almost immediately remitted to their home land; and, save in regard to disbursements connected with the up-keep and maintenance of estates, the finance required can in such conditions be effected through other media of currency. Doubtless an extension of banking facilities combined with a more complete understanding of the functions of currency will tend to diminish the Indian agriculturist's present preference for payment in metal and will lead him to apply metallic currency to a less infructuous purpose than that of a store of value. As it is, the development of the paper currency which will be described at greater length in a subsequent paragraph, has on the whole been eminently satisfactory and affords direct evidence of the results which may be expected from the universal provision of facilities which will demonstrate in a practical and tangible way that paper and metallic money are interchangeable.

Absorption of sovereigns and gold.

33. As regards sovereigns, the absorption as shown above amounted to 11,66 lakhs. It can safely be asserted that the whole of this amount went into hoards or the melting pot, and represents no real addition to the circulation. As a matter of fact, the absorption of sovereigns in the year was somewhat larger than is disclosed by the above statement, for the figures there given do not include sovereigns imported and passed into consumption without presentation at a Government office or treasury. In normal times the proportion of such imports to those which are tendered to the Currency Department is not very serious and possesses no special significance. The reduction, however, since the outbreak of war, in private imports of gold, which is largely required for use in connection with the arts, has caused a scarcity value to attach to the sovereign as a commodity and imported sovereigns have consequently not found their way into the currency of the country. Of the 2,000,000 sovereigns imported between August 1914 and March 1917 all but 50,000 passed into consumption immediately on importation. The position has of course been reversed since the promulgation of the Gold (Import) Ordinance of 1917, which brought automatically into the Paper Currency Reserve all gold, whether bullion or coin, imported into this country. This Ordinance was promulgated in June 1917. Prior to that date, however, there had been imported in the first three months of 1917-18 nearly $1\frac{1}{2}$ million sovereigns, namely, 2,62 lakhs which, as just explained, are not included in the 11,66 lakhs shown as having been issued from Currency during the year.

Currency sovereigns were released in the year between April and August 1917 and again in February and March 1918 to relieve the strain on the silver balances. They were issued primarily in connection with the purchase in Northern India of wheat for the Royal Commission, though both in April 1917 and in February and March 1918, issues were also made in certain districts of Madras and certain of the cotton-growing districts of Bombay.

and, to a lesser extent, to Calcutta, where they were mostly turned into jewellery. The very marked increase in the numbers of private assays of gold conducted at the Calcutta and the Bombay Assay Offices is sufficient indication of the fate of these sovereigns, and latterly more direct and circumstantial evidence has become available as to the extent to which gold coin has been melted. The melting of gold as also silver coin was declared on the 29th June 1917 to be an offence under the Defence of India Rules.

Though it is unfortunately too true that all but an insignificant portion of the sovereigns thus issued eventually found their way into the melting pot or into private hoards, it must not therefore be assumed that they failed entirely

The inset table gives the detailed absorption in each month in which Currency gold was issued. Of the total of 11,66 lakhs of Currency gold issued 8,74 lakhs were issued in the Punjab and the United Provinces and 2,37 lakhs in Bombay. It may be taken for granted that only a relatively insignificant amount of the sovereigns issued in Northern India remained in the Punjab and the United Provinces, the bulk probably finding their way very shortly after issue to Bombay, to achieve the purpose which their issue was intended to secure. Qua currency, doubtless these sovereigns had a limited function : but they undoubtedly operated as such when paid out initially by the wheat purchasing firms to their sellers or agents, though subsequently they admittedly passed from hand to hand as commodities. It is true that only in rare cases did these sovereigns reach the actual producer with whom the wheat purchasing firms are unable to get into touch save in a very few localities. Where, as in one of the cotton-growing districts of Bombay, special measures were taken to secure the direct payment of sovereigns to the producer, it was found that the sovereigns thus paid out were immediately sold for silver. On the other hand, there is little doubt that the issue of these gold coins did for the time being relieve the strain on the silver balances. At the time when it was decided to make these issues of sovereigns the silver balances in the Currency were extremely low, and it was at least doubtful whether they could stand the strain of the further large demands for silver currency required for the purchase of wheat to the order of the Royal Commission. Actually, I may observe, in the Punjab side by side with the issue of sovereigns there was a return of silver. This coincidence is probably in part explainable as being due to other causes, and further experience will be necessary before any definite conclusions can be drawn ; but I may note here that between the middle of May when sovereigns were first issued and the end of August when these issues were closed there was a return of silver. The issue of sovereigns from April 1917 rendered it possible to maintain the silver balances at a sufficient level to meet all ordinary requirements until with the termination of the busy season the demand for silver fell away and the usual return of silver set in.

34. The price of sovereigns during the year fluctuated between a minimum of Rs. 15-3-3 and a maximum of Rs. 18-4-0, the fluctuations, as might be expected, being directly traceable to the release of sovereigns from Currency. In April 1917 the highest price touched by the sovereign was Rs. 15-15-3, the lowest Rs. 15-8. With the release of Currency sovereigns the price gradually fell away till the lowest point, namely, Rs. 15-3-3, was touched in June. The price rose again in August, when issues from Currency were again stopped, to Rs. 16-4, in November to Rs. 17-2, in January to Rs. 18-0 and in February to Rs. 18-4. The release in March of further sovereigns from Currency brought about a relapse in prices, and the year closed with the sovereign at Rs. 16-7. The price of sovereigns.

VII.—The Note Circulation.

35. Statements XI to XX contain the usual statistics regarding the currency note circulation. The table below compares the gross, net and active circulation on the 31st March, and also the average for the year in each case with the corresponding figures for certain previous years. The figures for the net circulation exclude the value of the notes held in the Reserve Treasuries. Those for the active circulation further exclude the value of notes in all other Government treasuries, and also of notes held in the Head offices of the Presidency Banks.

The gross circulation exceeded the 100 crore mark for the first time in August 1917, and remained well above that mark until March, the highest figure, namely 114.77 crores, being recorded in October. Of the gross circulation the amounts held in the Reserve and District Treasuries depend primarily on the resource operations of Government, and the variations in the amounts so held from time to time have no special significance in the present connection. The variations in the note holdings of the Presidency Banks at their head offices may be said to reflect the fluctuations in the money market and the large increase which Statement XV discloses in these holdings, the average of which has more than doubled in the year to 21,77 lakhs, is to be referred to the causes discussed in section V. As has been explained in previous reports the figures for the average active circulation probably form the best criterion of the extent to which currency notes actually circulate among the public. The development of the active circulation which was observed in the last two reports has been maintained. At the close of the year it was 84½ crores and exceeded by over 17 crores the figure recorded on the same date in 1916-17. The average value for the year was nearly 72 crores, that is to say, 12½ crores more than the average of the preceding year. The active circulation was at its highest in March, and at its lowest in June when it fell to 62,27 lakhs.

* These figures represent 5 years' increase.

Passing now to the distribution of the note circulation according to circles, all circles show substantial increases, but the largest increase in the gross circulation is recorded in the Bombay circle, which, with an average gross circulation of 36.85 crores, is now ahead of the Calcutta circle, where the average gross circulation has increased from 28,45 lakhs to 33,89 lakhs. The increase in the gross circulation in Bombay, as also the increase in that of the Karachi circle, is to some extent accounted for by the fact that the note requirements of Mesopotamia are largely supplied from these two circles. Actually there were shipped during the year to Basra 4,42 lakhs in notes of these two circles. Statistics of the circulation in the occupied territories in Mesopotamia are not available, except as regard the 5-rupee and the 10-rupee notes of which it is estimated that on the 31st December 1917 there were in circulation 1½ crores and 2½ crores respectively.

36. The following statement shows by circles the number of notes of each denomination (excluding the Rs. 10,000 note) in circulation on the 31st December in each of the last three years for each 10,000 of the population :—

note circulation.

The increase in circulation observed in the two preceding reports of all the universal notes, i.e., notes of denominations up to and including Rs. 100 has been more than maintained, the most striking advance, being in the 5-rupee denomination the circulation of which has in the last two years more than doubled itself. In every circle this denomination shows a material advance, that in the Bombay circle being most marked. In the Punjab this denomination has attained a certain popularity in connection with payments to troops and at post offices. In Calcutta, as has been explained elsewhere, a larger use was made of this denomination in connection with the finance of the jute crop. The 10-rupee note has not apparently maintained its popularity in the Calcutta and Rangoon circles, but elsewhere, more particularly, in the Karachi circle, an appreciable advance was recorded. The 50-rupee note elsewhere than in Karachi, Bombay and Lahore shows little variation as compared with the previous year. The minus figure shown against Madras under this denomination is due to the fact that all notes withdrawn from circulation at agencies are treated as home notes, an adjustment in respect of foreign notes not being made until the notes are eventually received at Madras. There were large remittances from Bombay to certain Madras districts, and the withdrawal of these at the agencies was taken in the first instance in reduction of the balance of Madras notes.

It will be observed that the above statement gives no statistics regarding the Rs. 2-8 notes. This denomination was not put into issue until after the 31st December, and similarly the statistics given above refer only to the circulation of the 1-rupee notes in Calcutta, Bombay and Madras in which three circles alone the 1-rupee note had been put into issue by the 31st December.

On the 31st March there were outstanding Rs. 32½ lakhs of Re. 1 notes and just under Rs. 18 lakhs of Rs. 2-8 notes. The first of these denominations was put into circulation on December 1st, and initially the issue was restricted to the Presidency Banks, though within a very short time the issue from Currency offices was commenced at Calcutta, Bombay and Madras. Subsequently, issues were commenced also at other circles. The size of these notes, and their liability to tear and to soiling have to some extent tended to affect their acceptability by the public. The Rs. 2-8 denomination, which was put into circulation on the 2nd January, has so far achieved little progress, but as regards the Re. 1 notes the shortage of silver towards the end of the official year necessitated a larger use of this small value note, and the first three months of 1918-19 witnessed a large development in the circulation thereof. By the 30th June there were in circulation about 2½ crores of these notes.

37. Statement XX gives the usual information regarding the civil treasuries in the different provinces at which notes are cashed. Save at Indore and at a few treasuries in the Punjab and in the United Provinces, treasuries elsewhere were practically in a position to encash notes generally to the full extent of the public's requirements. The statistics of transactions at treasuries given in the statement which follows, show a material increase in the receipts and issues of notes. Both in the payment of dues to Government, as also in payment of dues by Government, notes are being used to a much larger extent than formerly, a very marked increase in this direction being observable in the statistics of the last three years. Notes tendered at the treasuries for encashment exceeded by Rs. 1,66 lakhs the notes issued by Treasuries against silver tendered by the public: and there was a very small increase in the value of notes tendered by the public for exchange into notes of other values.

The ratio of circulation to cancellation (taken to two places of decimals) is a rough measure of the life of each denomination. There is an increase in the length of the life of each denomination, particularly of the Rs. 5 note. This denomination, as will have been observed, has made a considerable advance in popularity, and re-issues on a large scale were necessary. Generally, re-issues have had to be on a much larger scale than could be desired; but scarcity of paper has led to inadequate supplies of notes coming forward from Home.

No statistics of the life of Rs. 1 and Rs. 2-8 notes are as yet available.

VIII.—Miscellaneous matters connected with Currency notes and coinage.

Note-forgeries.

39. There was a large increase during the year in the number of forged notes presented for encashment or received in the Currency offices for examination as to their genuineness or for safe custody, an aggregate of 396 being recorded against 96 and 97 in the two previous years. 123 out of these were forged notes in various stages of completion discovered by the United Provinces police in the course of an enquiry in Meerut. They were the work of a professional forger and his accomplices who had secured a regular printing press with other implements of forgery. The effort was not, however, very successful; the first few notes which it was attempted to pass on to the public, aroused suspicion and led to the discovery of the authors by the police. Of the remaining 273 forgeries, 187 were of the Rs. 5, 66 of the Rs. 10, 18 of the Rs. 100 and 2 of the Rs. 1,000 denomination. As many as 231 of the forgeries appeared in the Calcutta Circle alone.

A considerable number of new forgeries belonging to different series was brought to light during the year. Apart, however, from the important class of forgeries described below, few exhibited any cleverness of execution or were widely circulated. The five rupee note-forgeries of the $\frac{YB}{34}$, $\frac{LC}{60}$ and $\frac{LC}{61}$ series which seem to have originated from the same source, were very successful in imposing on the public. They were apparently printed from metal or wooden blocks, the paper used being of a passable quality with spurious water-marks of a rather faint outline. The printing and the signature were fairly done and altogether the notes were clever imitations. The forgeries of the $\frac{YB}{34}$ series first made their appearance in Calcutta in October 1917, while the variants of the $\frac{LC}{60}$ and $\frac{LC}{61}$ series appeared for the first time in March 1918. No fewer than 159 of the forgeries presented during the year at Calcutta belong to one or other of these three series, while single notes have also been detected in Rangoon, Bombay and Cawnpore. The new forgeries of the Rs. 10 denomination which were represented by a few notes in each of a number of different series, were generally inferior specimens, either handdrawn or lithographed on ordinary paper. The notes of the ^{BD}₁₃ series, several of which appeared at Rangoon, were passable forgeries done by the lithographic process, though the lettering was somewhat uneven. The forged note of the ^{NC}₄₃ series presented at Rangoon was prepared by the old anastatic process. Among the new forgeries of the Rs. 100 denomination, mention may be made of the notes of the ^{NC}₅₆, ^{NC}₅₈, ^{QC}₆₈ series all purporting to be of the Rangoon circle, in illustration of a clever device sometimes employed by forgers. The notes were printed from metal blocks on a genuine 10-Rupree note paper, the original impression thereon having first been completely washed out by some chemical process. Another "0" was added to the water mark figure "10" apparently by pressure from a wooden block.

Altogether four prosecutions were undertaken during the year in connection with forged notes, two in the United Provinces, 1 in Bombay and 1 in Burma. All four resulted in convictions. The heaviest sentences were secured in the Meerut case mentioned above, three of the accused persons being sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for periods ranging from 5 to 10 years on various counts.

40. The figures below show the number of wholly destroyed, half and mutilated notes, claims in respect of which were admitted during the year 1917-18 and the two preceding years:—

Half notes {	Lost by post	710	615	462
Half notes {	Lost otherwise	621	808	1,030

The value of notes written off to Government during the year under section 19 of Act II of 1910 amounted to Rs. 70,820 as compared with Rs. 67,670, Rs. 66,740 and Rs. 79,430 in the three years 1914-15 to 1916-17.

41. The total value of withdrawn coins amounted to 1,22½ lakhs against Rs. 1,41½ lakhs in 1916-17. The details are as shown in the statement below:—

42. Information regarding the counterfeit silver coins which came to light during the year will be found in the review of the reports of the working of the Mints in Bombay and Calcutta.

Absorption of small silver, nickel and bronze.

43. Statement XXI contains details of the absorption of small coin in each province during each of the last three years. These are summarised in the table below together with the corresponding figures for the years from 1910-11 onwards (a minus sign indicating a return from circulation):—

Year.	In thousands of rupees.
	Four-anna pieces.	Two-anna pieces.	One-anna pieces.	Single piece.	TOTAL.

1917-18	38,11	28,53	25,86	6,15	98,65

The total for the year 1917-18 excludes about Rs. 10 lakhs of small coin sent to Basra. The absorption for the year amounted to Rs. 98½ lakhs against 97½ in the previous year.

Receipts and expenditure of the Currency Department.

44. Statement XXII gives the usual details of the receipts and expenditure of the Currency Department for the year 1917-18. The receipts, it will be seen, have nearly doubled and amounted to Rs. 1,82,72,108 the increase in investments accounting for the larger receipts. The expenditure consequent on a larger consumption of note forms increased by Rs. 4,43,888 to 29.88 lakhs.

* The anomaly of a minus sign is due to the procedure under which foreign circle notes held in currency chests are treated as home notes for the purpose of the currency accounts. The foreign notes of the Rs. 2-8 and 50 denominations held on the 31st March in the currency chests of the four circles where the minus sign occurs and thus temporarily withdrawn from circulation exceeded the total of the notes of these denominations in the circles in circulation. The figures for all the circles together of course work up to a correct total.

(c) No agreement for composition shall be entered into unless the income in regard to which such composition is entered into is in the opinion of the Collector likely to be stable during the next three years.

(d) No agreement for composition shall ordinarily cover a period of more than three years. In exceptional circumstances the Collector is authorized to permit a composition for a period of five years; but the compounded income should not be less than what is essential as the average income for the whole period.

(e) An agreement for composition shall determine the income other than that excluded under rule (b) and the tax on the income fixed by composition shall be levied provisionally at the rate applicable to such income, but such rate shall year by year be revised and eventually fixed at the rate applicable to the total income of the assessee, including his income under the heads excluded from composition, being determined year by year after such total income has been ascertained.

(f) On receipt of an application under rule (a) the Collector shall institute inquiries as to the probability of a future increase or decrease in the applicant's income, and shall determine whether a composition shall be made, and if so, the amount on which the tax shall be compounded. Such amount shall not be less than the full amount which is estimated as the average income of the applicant during the period for which the composition is made.

(g) If the application is sanctioned the applicant shall execute an agreement in Form No. XI appended to these rules within one month from the date on which the amount of composition is notified to him. If he fails to execute the agreement within the above period, the Collector may proceed to assess him as if no application for composition had been made and sanctioned.

(h) The agreement shall be made in two parts. One of such parts executed by the compounding party shall be retained by the Collector and the other part signed by the Collector shall be made over to the compounding party.

(j) If the Collector is at any time satisfied that the party compounding has obtained the composition fraudulently by understating his income or otherwise, he may cancel his agreement.

(k) If any person before any tax has been assessed in respect of his income offer his accounts for examination by an accountant (munim) nominated by the Collector, and consents to be assessed on the result of such examination, the Collector may direct such examination to be made and after such examination make a composition with such person as to the amount of income on which his tax shall be assessed for the year in respect of which his accounts have been examined.

(l) Where a composition has been made, the application for composition shall be deemed to be the return under section 17 (2) of the Act, and the order of the Collector making the composition shall be deemed to be the notice of demand under section 20 or notice of summary assessment under section 30 (2).

(c) When a statement of profit and loss prepared by an approved Accountant under these rules and certified as prescribed by rule (b) is filed by an assessee the Collector shall dispense with a scrutiny of the accounts of such assessee unless in his opinion there are reasons which make such scrutiny desirable.

17. Under section 30 (2) it is prescribed as follows :—

(i) He shall submit also the treasury receipt or receipts issued to him on account of the payment of the tax in reference to which his application is made or a certificate of such payment which the Treasury Officer shall furnish on a petition to him which sets forth correctly the date and amount of any payment in respect of which a certificate is required.

(i) A refund may at the request of an applicant be remitted to him by money order at the cost of the applicant.

(j) Against the order of a Collector on an application for refund under rule (e) a petition shall be allowed to the Chief Commissioner. The petition shall ordinarily be presented within 30 days of the receipt by the petitioner of the Collector's order, but the Chief Commissioner may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the petitioner had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(l) The Collector shall keep on record returns in Forms XIV, XVI, applications under rule 23 (d) and (e) and on Form XXI, copies of certificates of refunds under rule 23 (g) and on Form XXIII issued by him for three years from the end of the financial year in which such returns have been received or certificates issued.

24. Under section 43 it is prescribed as follows :—

(a) Any claim under section 3(2) (ii) of the Act to exemption from the levy of tax on the interest of securities applicable solely to religious or charitable purposes within the meaning of that clause must be supported by a certificate from the Collector which shall be in Form No. XXIV appended to those rules.

(b) Upon the authority of such a certificate granted by the Collector the person who pays the interest on the securities specified shall not deduct tax from it.

25. Under section 43 the following rules are prescribed :—

(a) Any witness who attends to give evidence or produce any account or document in any proceeding under the Income Tax Act VII of 1918 shall be entitled to the payment of expenses under the procedure and on the scale in force for the payment of such expenses to witnesses who attend a Civil Court.

(b) Any payment made to any witness summoned by the Collector or Chief Commissioner shall be recoverable as an arrear of income tax from the assessee when such witness has been summoned in a proceeding in which the assessee has failed to substantiate a case put forward by him. When the case put forward by an assessee wholly or partially succeeds, the officer before whom the proceedings are held may direct that any payment made to any witness may be wholly or partially paid by Government and if he directs that a part shall be paid by the assessee such part shall be recoverable as an arrear of income tax.

26. Under section 43 the following rules are prescribed :—

(a) Any reference made to the Chief Commissioner under section 51(1) of the Act or otherwise in any matter relating to the Act shall be made through the Collector.

(b) Any petition to the Chief Commissioner praying him to exercise the power conferred on him by section 23 of the Act shall be presented to the Collector who, in the exercise of his discretion, shall withhold such petition unless he is of opinion that the grounds on which it is based call for consideration by higher authority, in which case he shall forward the petition to the Chief Commissioner whose decision shall be final.

27. Under section 43 the following rules are prescribed for the determination of the income of certain assessee non-resident in British India :—

I.—Indian Branches of Non-resident Firms—

(a) Indian branches of non-resident firms shall ordinarily be assessed on the actual profits disclosed from the balance sheet and profit and loss accounts of the branches.

(b) Except as provided in rule (c) in cases of firms in which the form adopted for the accounts and balance sheets of the head office or of the Indian branches does not enable the share of the profits properly due to the Indian branches to be accurately gauged or which keep no accounts at all either at their head office abroad or at their branch offices in India, the Collector may either fix as the incomes of the Indian branches for the assessment purposes a percentage of the turnover of the business done by the branches or, if that be not suitable, determine such incomes on the basis of any other method of calculation which he considers to be more reliable.

(c) The profits of the Indian Branches of non-resident Insurance Companies (Life, Marine, Fire, Accident, Burglary, Fidelity, Guarantee, etc.) shall be based on the proportion of the total profits of the companies corresponding to the proportion which their Indian premium income bears to their total premium income.

II.—Indian Firms allied to Non-resident Firms of which they are not technically branches or agencies—

(d) Except as provided in section 33, sub-section (2), the procedure prescribed by rules (a) and (b) shall also apply in the case of Indian firms allied to non-resident firms of which they are not technically branches or agencies.

28. Under section 43 the following rule is prescribed :—

If among persons engaged in any business, profession or vocation in partnership together, any change shall take place in any such partnership, either by death or dissolution of partnership as to one or any of the partners or by admitting any other partner therein, before the time of making the assessment, or within the year for which the assessment ought to be made under the Act, or if any person shall have succeeded to any business, profession or vocation within such periods as aforesaid, the tax payable in respect of such partnership, or any such partners, or any person succeeding to such business, profession or vocation, shall be computed on the profits derived from such business, profession or vocation, during the previous year in accordance with the provisions of the Act notwithstanding such change therein or succession to such business, profession or vocation. The assessment so made will in all cases be subject to adjustment under the provisions of section 19 of the Act.

NOTES.

HEAD 1 OF SUMMARY OF INCOME.

1. The return must show the total gross income from salary, etc., without any deduction on account of any payment for any life insurance, provident fund, etc.
2. Any portion of a salary paid outside British India for services in British India is assessable and must be included in the return.
3. Except for an allowance made under special conditions such as those to which the Simla Hill Allowance Code applies, an allowance for house rent or the value of rent free quarters enjoyed by an employee is assessable to income-tax and must be included in the return.

HEAD 2 OF SUMMARY OF INCOME.

If a security is issued with interest payable in British India, the amount of such interest is liable to tax in British India even if by any special agreement it is actually paid outside British India, e.g., by the encasement of Government of India promissory notes for payment in London.

The Companies of which the securities must be entered under this head in table A of the summary are any Company as defined in the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or formed in pursuance of an Act of Parliament or of an Act of the Legislature of a British possession and any foreign Association carrying on business in British India which has been declared by the Government of India to be a Company for the purposes of the Income Tax Act.

A local authority of which the securities must be entered under this head in table A of the summary is a Municipal Committee, District Board, body of Port Commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government of India or a Local Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund in India.

If in respect of any security on which the tax is not deducted on the interest when it is paid, such as the bonds of a foreign government, the interest is paid in a currency other than that of British India, the equivalent amount should be entered in terms of the British Indian currency at the current rate of exchange.

HEAD 3 OF SUMMARY OF INCOME.

Details must be given separately for every house, whether situated within or without British India, of which the rent is received in British India.

The bona fide annual value may differ from the actual rent as it is the full market value for which each house may reasonably be expected to let from year to year irrespective of any charges by way of municipal rates or taxes thereon. It is important that such bona fide annual value should be fully estimated and returned.

The assessee must give full particulars of mortgages, insurances and other charges on account of which allowances are claimed.

HEAD 4 OF SUMMARY OF INCOME.

Under this Head is taxable income derived from any trade, commerce or manufacture or any adventure or concern in the nature of trade, commerce or manufacture, and from any business such as that of a retail or wholesale merchant, a banker, a regular stock broker, or a regular speculator in satta or badni, as well as income derived from a mortgage (including a mortgage without possession of agricultural land) or as interest on money lent—even if the assessee has only a single sum out on loan—and interest on fixed deposits and current accounts.

No deduction may be made for—

- (1) any sum paid for the purchase of a good will and other similar expenditure of a capital nature;
- (2) any payment made to form an insurance fund against future losses;
- (3) any amount sent off out of the profits of the year on account of ascertained losses of previous years;
- (4) any bad debt not actually written off;
- (5) interest on the capital of the owner or owners of a business;
- (6) any payment or drawing on account of personal expenditure or of any allowance to a relative or dependant;
- (7) any payment made on account of income tax or super-tax;
- (8) any sum given by way of commission not in the regular course of business;
- (9) any sum expended on charity or as a present; or
- (10) expenditure not incurred in the regular course of business.

The Act exempts all agricultural income from taxation, but profits derived from business in such agricultural produce are subject to taxation. It has been prescribed that any person who makes a profit by business in his own agricultural produce which is exempt from taxation and for which he has not actually paid the market value may deduct that market value in calculating the taxable profits of his business.

Allowances are claimable in respect of—

- (a) the rent paid for the premises in which a business is carried on, or where the premises are owned by the assessee for the long fide annual market value at which such premises may reasonably be expected to be let; provided that if the assessee lives in the premises the allowance to be made will be determined by the Collector with regard to the proportionate part of the premises which the assessee uses as a residence;
- (b) the sum actually expended by the assessee on repairs to premises which he rents for his business on a repairing lease, provided that if he lives in the house the allowance to be made will be proportional part of such sum to be determined by the Collector;
- (c) interest on capital borrowed for a business if the payment of such interest is not in any way dependent on the earning of profits;
- (d) any premium paid for the insurance of the buildings, machinery or plant of a business;
- (e) any sum actually expended on current repairs to the buildings, machinery or plant of a business;
- (f) such sum on account of depreciation of buildings, machinery or plant as may be admitted on a claim in the prescribed form which may be obtained from the Collector's office;
- (g) in respect of any machinery or plant sold or discarded as obsolete the difference between its original cost to the assessee less the aggregate of allowances made for depreciation and the amount for which the machinery or plant was sold or its scrap value;
- (h) any sum paid for land revenue, local rates or municipal taxes on account of business premises;
- (i) any expenditure—not in the nature of capital expenditure—incurred solely for the purpose of earning the profits of the business, including replacements necessary for carrying on the business.

HEAD 5 OF SUMMARY OF INCOME.

1. The tax on professional earnings is due on the profits of any profession or vocation.
2. Professional fees paid in any part of India to a person ordinarily resident in British India must be included in the income taxable.
3. An allowance can be made for expenditure not in the nature of capital expenditure incurred solely for the purpose of the vocation or profession.
4. An allowance can be made on such items as lawyers' books or dentists' instruments only on account of replacements. Other expenditure on this account must be treated as capital expenditure.
5. No allowance can be made on account of any personal expenses of the assessee.

HEAD 6 OF SUMMARY OF INCOME.

All income derived from any source other than those returned under the preceding heads is taxable under this head. Examples of such income are—

- (i) ground rent;

- (ii) income from agricultural land not paying land revenue to the British Government;
- (iii) language rewards;
- (iv) a fee for the conduct of an examination paid to an officer whose ordinary duty does not include such conduct;
- (v) director's fees;
- (vi) survey fees.

An allowance may be made for any expenditure incurred solely for the purpose of making such income, provided that it is not of the nature of capital expenditure or any personal expenses of the assessee.

All Maps from Surveys after 1905 called "Modern" are printed in 4 or 5 colours, i.e., water forms in blue, towns and roads in red, forests and jungle in green, cultivation in yellow, hill contours in brown with shading to emphasize the hills, and other details in black.

All Maps from Surveys prior to 1905 are printed in black only or in black with hills in brown.

All Maps on scales $1''=4$ miles, $\frac{1}{1,000,000}$ or nearly $1''=16$ miles and $\frac{1}{2,000,000}$ or nearly $1''=32$ miles are printed in either one or two of the following editions, except those marked "Provisional Issue" which are from old surveys—

- (1) Layered edition, printed in colours with contours and graduated layer tints to show altitudes and shading to emphasize the hills. (Colour ribbands along boundaries cannot be added to this edition.)
- (2) Political edition, printed in colours with colour ribbands along boundaries, contours to show altitudes and shading to emphasize the hills.
- (3) Provisional issue, generally printed in black or in black with hills in brown. Colour ribbands along boundaries are added by hand when required at an extra cost of 2 annas per sheet.
